

BULGARIANS PRESSING ON ADRIANOPLE

Talk of Intervention By Great Powers—Servians Won At Kumanova

VIENNA, Oct. 25.—News-papers here publish reports that the Bulgarians are in possession of the Adrianople Railway station and have repulsed another Turkish attempt at a sortie from the city. They add that fresh Bulgarian columns have arrived and are now completing the investment of Adrianople.

SOFIA, Oct. 25.—The Bulgarian troops are reported to have begun a bombardment of Adrianople. A portion of the town is said to be burning.

BERLIN, Oct. 25.—The foreign office here expects that intervention by the powers will follow the first decisive battle in the Balkan campaign. It is usually expected to co-operate with the other powers with this end in view. She believes Austria will join in the movement for intervention and has hopes that Russia will do likewise, arguing that Turkey too badly weakened. The fall of Kirk Kilissa is not regarded as a decisive battle, according to the view taken of the situation by the foreign office.

SOFIA, Oct. 25.—The situation before Adrianople is unchanged. In the fighting at Yuruk, the Turks are reported to have lost about 800 men killed and 500 taken prisoners, and in addition have taken from them three quick firing guns and twelve ammunition wagons.

At Kichik, forty miles west of Mustapha Pasha, the Bulgarians seized a depot containing 300,000 cartridges, forty cases of shells and large stores of food.

In the Haziog district, the Bulgarians are masters of the upper reaches of the Mesta river. In this district near Mahmud, a Turkish infantry regiment has been annihilated and a battalion of Turkish regulars and irregulars is surrounded in the town by Bulgarian troops.

VRANYA, Oct. 25.—An incident of the battle which resulted in the capture of Kumanova by the Servians indicates the desperate character of the conflict.

A company of Servian infantry charged the Turks with the bayonet and the hand to hand struggle developed individual combats in which many of the soldiers dropped their rifles and drew knives with which they hacked and slashed one another.

It is reported in Turkish ranks the words of command given by the officers were in German.

ROOSEVELT SUES MICHIGAN EDITOR

First Opportunity to Hold Anyone Responsible for Whispered Slanders

MARQUETTE, Mich., Oct. 25.—Suits filed for libel was filed today by a Detroit attorney, acting for Theodore Roosevelt, against George A. Newett, editor of the Chronicle of Lake Superior, Mich. The complaint alleged that in that paper printed an article in his paper charging Colonel Roosevelt with using indecent language.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—That the charges against the Michigan editor were based on the circulation of an "anonymous" campaign of slander against Colonel Roosevelt is the declaration of the Progressive national committee in a statement tonight.

"Knowing the cruel falsity of this charge," the statement says, "those who have been interested in circulating it have proceeded under cover and in the dark. No respectable person of responsibility, so far as he is known to Colonel Roosevelt and his friends, has dared to make the charge in an open and responsible way until Mr. Newett made it in his newspaper."

On Monday, October 14, the day he was shot, Colonel Roosevelt was in Chicago preparing to go to Milwaukee, when a copy of the paper was put in his hands. Upon reading the article, Colonel Roosevelt gave directions to proceed against Mr. Newett at once.

forces massed at Kavakly between Escadell and Novakidra and that the battle cost the Turks 1300 killed.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—After a four days' heavy battle, the Bulgarians are resting. There were no reports of fighting today along the line from Kirk Kilissa to Adrianople.

The Bulgarians have not decided whether they will attempt to capture Adrianople by assault or to starve out its garrison by siege.

The early capture of Kirk Kilissa was a great surprise even to Bulgarian staff officers and their allies and the swift progress of the war was unexpected by Europe generally. It has been only nine days since Turkey declared war and yet events have reached the point where possibility of intervention by the powers already is talked of.

Much interest centers in the nature of the alliance of the Balkan states. It is said on good authority that one of the provisions of the alliance is that no one state shall conclude peace without the others agreeing to do so.

Next in importance to the operations in Traco is the struggle between the Servians and Turks in the Kumanova region. Constantinople at last admits the success of the Servian arms.

The Montenegrins are pressing their attack on Scutari. It is reported that the Turkish garrison at Scutari has retired to the heights of Zadrina, south of the town. This action is interpreted as preparation to evacuate Scutari.

The Greeks are continuing their northward march and today occupied Kosani, about twelve miles northwest of the town of Servia.

TURKS FOUGHT DOGGEDLY

SOFIA, Oct. 25.—Accounts of the fall of Kirk Kilissa received here say the Turks fought doggedly, repeatedly repulsing the Bulgarians, who, however, always returned to the charge. The Turkish losses were over two thousand and killed and two thousand made prisoners.

It is now stated that it was Ahmed, a son of Mahmud Kuchuk Pasha, commander of the Turkish forces at Kirk Kilissa and not a son of Ghazi Mikhitar Pasha, the grand vizier, who was captured.

It is said the Turkish columns fled south and east pursued by the Bulgarians, fighting rear guard actions as far as Viza on the east and Pehlen on the south.

King Ferdinand sent a stirring message to the troops, praising the dash and gallantry they exhibited in their attack on Kirk Kilissa.

LASTED THIRTY HOURS

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The final attack by the Bulgarians on Kirk Kilissa lasted thirty hours, according to a special dispatch from Starazagora, in which the Bulgarians retreated to east in the direction toward a column of Turkish advancing from the Vlayana road.

The Bulgarians then attacked Moras and Arda opposite Adrianople. The losses of both contestants were enormous. A large number of Turkish officers fell.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The alliance of the Balkan kings far exceeds the status of a military combination for the immediate object in view, according to the Outlook, which claims to have special information that it is a permanent federation intended to exclude all external authority from the Balkan peninsula.

The King of Greece, according to the Outlook, will become president of the alliance on the nomination of King Nicholas of Montenegro. The religious character of Balkan Christians will be ended by uniting the orthodox churches of Bulgaria, Greece, Servia and Montenegro, as in ancient times, under the patriarch of Constantinople, who is head of the Greek church. The churches will retain their national rituals and languages.

The extension of Servia through Bosnia to the Adriatic Sea will form a part of the scheme which Austria is expected strongly to resist, says the Outlook. The powers are negotiating actively in all the European capitals concerning what policy to pursue when the time for settlement of the war has passed.

CUBA IS ON BRINK OF BLOODY CIVIL WAR

Pre-election Bitterness Endangers Peacefulness of Balloting

FACTIONS IN BATTLE

President Gomez' Measures Are Proving Unsatisfactory to Both Sides

HAVANA, Oct. 25.—Havana is quiet outwardly tonight. There is a strong undercurrent of excitement and dread of a repetition of the bloody scenes of last night when a black battle between Conservatives and Liberals took place in Central Park at the close of a meeting held by the political supporters of Alfredo Zayas, a candidate for the presidency.

The cavalry guard was withdrawn from Central Park today and replaced by a strong force of police, who are not permitting any gatherings.

The partisan newspapers are indulging in furious recriminations and threats, and both sides are declaring their determination to appeal to force if their rights are not recognized.

At a conference this afternoon in the department of the interior at which representatives of the Conservatives and Liberals were present, charges were made that Chief of Police Aguirre assisted the Zayasists last night.

PALL OF SMOKE IN THE NORTH PACIFIC SHOWS ERUPTION

CORDOVA, Alaska, Oct. 25.—Katmai volcano, which caused great damage on the Alaskan peninsula and adjacent island last June, is believed to be in violent eruption again, the mail steamer Dora, having reported by wireless today that she is anchored off Whales Island, unable to proceed further westward on her voyage to Dutch Harbor because of darkness caused by falling volcanic ash.

The Dora left Seward on her monthly trip to the Aleutian Islands last Monday and ran into the pall of smoke at Whales Island, situated between Afognak Island and Kodiak Island, both of which were covered by a thick layer of ash during the previous eruption. The navy cutter Nero is at Kodiak erecting a new wireless station to replace the one destroyed at the time of June eruption of Mount Katmai, and efforts are being made to communicate with her by wireless to ascertain conditions there.

TEACHERS FAVOR POLL TAX; OPPOSE RACE TRACK BILL

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 25.—At the close of a three days' session, the northern section of the California Teachers' Association adopted a resolution opposing the proposed repeal by initiative amendment of the poll tax, and in favor of which now go to the school fund.

A state trades or industrial school in the northern portion of the state was urged upon the legislature. The home rule in taxation amendment was opposed. An amendment to the constitution was favored, permitting the appointment of special supervisors in rural as well as city schools. The race-track initiative measure was denounced.

LOOK FOR HUSBAND OF SLAIN WOMAN

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—The police learned today that a woman living under the name of Mrs. Marie Rachel, who was murdered last Monday night, was the wife of George Bellgardt, a German, for whom search has been instituted in the belief that he might clear up the mystery. He was last heard of in El Paso, Texas, and word was received from that city that Bellgardt had left three weeks ago ostensibly for Mexico City.

It developed today that Bellgardt and Mrs. Rachel were married in Indianapolis in 1906 and correspondence between the two found in the house indicated that the woman had charged him with bigamy. A search of the house also revealed a note signed apparently by Mrs. Bellgardt, last night, to telegraph Bellgardt at El Paso if she were found dead. The handwriting was said to be different from that of the woman.

According to the police the woman was expecting a visitor on the night she was killed as she had previously visited a nearby grocery store where she purchased two cigars. The stumps of the cigars were found in the house.

BECKER PLANS TO SECURE REVERSAL

Schepps and Rose Are Getting Anxious to Be Out of Tombs

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Police Lieutenant Charles Becker spent his hours in the Tombs today planning his fight to annul the verdict of the jury that convicted him last night of the murder of the gambler Herman Rosenthal.

Becker has lost most of his nerve that bore him through the trial and the ordeal of hearing himself condemned as guilty, if his appearance and every action today count for anything. He awoke refreshed from a sound sleep and after a hearty breakfast summoned his attorney, John F. McIntyre.

The two conferred over an hour and later McIntyre announced that immediate notice of appeal from the verdict would be filed. Without this appeal, Becker, who is due to be sentenced next Wednesday, would, if the usual procedure were followed, be in the chair in the electric chair the first week in November. The filing of the notice, however, will act as a stay, and many months may elapse before his fate is determined.

"I don't mind saying that we expect a reversal," Becker's attorney announced. "The appeal will be on the grounds that the verdict was against the weight of evidence; that the justice charge was of a character to injure the chances of the defendant; the justice's failure to rule that Sam Schepps was an accomplice in the murder, and on the error of law in the refusal of the justice to allow testimony submitted by the defense."

Ethel "Whitely" Lewis, or "Lefty Louie" will be the murder to be placed on trial. District Attorney Whitman said tonight. The date is fixed November 7. Meanwhile Jack Rose, "Bridge" Welch, Harry Vallon and Sam Schepps, the four prisoners, will be kept in the West Side prison.

Schepps, whose attitude toward his incarceration thus far has been one of complete docility, today protested to the district attorney that he had been "in jail long enough," and his counsel stated that he would take legal action to obtain his client's release.

DEATH FOR DIAZ SENTENCE OF MILITARY COURT

Trial of Vera Cruz Insurgent Suddenly Decided on by Madero

MAY BE SHOT TODAY

Great Excitement at Capital When News of Sentence Is Received

VERA CRUZ, Oct. 25.—The court-martial of General Felix Diaz began at 5 o'clock this afternoon. The execution of Limma and Mignat, two of his officers, has been fixed for tomorrow morning. It is probable that General Diaz will be shot at the same time. The remaining officers of the Diaz revolt will receive sentences of imprisonment.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 25.—Extra editions of the newspapers late tonight gave the report that General Felix Diaz, the leader of the recent revolt at Vera Cruz, had been sentenced to death by a court martial.

The story was received with doubt, but friends of Diaz tonight were urging in their efforts to secure a suspension of the sentence of death if it has been imposed. Efforts made to unravel the mystery surrounding developments at Vera Cruz and to determine why the decision had been reached to court-martial Diaz resulted in discussions in both houses of Congress tonight. An interpellation was directed to the President for a statement of all the facts in the case.

The Senate at a late hour was still in session. The lower house adjourned after sufficient members of the government supporters had made their exit, leaving the chamber without a quorum.

It is reported, but officially denied, that a number of the members of the cabinet will resign tomorrow. The city is quiet.

An interesting feature of the situation at Vera Cruz is a report in circulation tonight that Diaz had entrusted to Captain P. Hughes of the United States cruiser Des Moines papers relative to promises of support to Diaz by various federal army officers.

WADERO UPHOLDS VERDICT

President Madero tonight told a commission of students that he would not interfere with the application of the full rigor of the law in the case of Diaz, characterizing him as one who had revolted on account of personal ambition.

The student commission in appealing for Diaz presented a letter signed by 400 students. President Madero, however, said he would make the answer to all, even to women.

A cabinet minister tonight explained the immediate execution of Diaz was imperative. The case in court earlier was intended to bring the court martial to an end and would serve as a stay of execution until an investigation should develop whether Diaz should be tried by a civil or a military court. In once the result of the investigation was in favor of the military proceedings the sentence of court martial would stand.

BAND OF CRETANS FIRE ON MINERS

Sheriff and Posse of 200 Make Fruitless Search for Thirty

BINGHAM, Utah, Oct. 25.—Sheriff Sharp and his posse of 200 deputies returned to Bingham tonight after a fruitless search for the band of thirty Cretons who fired on a deputy sheriff and a number of workmen this morning, wounding five men, one probably fatally. After the Cretons had fired about 200 shots, they abandoned their position overlooking the mines and fled to the hills. Sheriff Sharp soon started in pursuit, but was unable to find any trace of the fugitives. The hills are not high and afford an excellent hiding place.

The riot in which the men were wounded occurred shortly before 8 o'clock this morning when Deputy Sheriff Leroy J. Tidwell was escorting a number of miners to work. Tidwell was shot in the breast and right arm. Harry Spelman was shot in the abdomen and it is believed he will die. Two Greek miners and a mine foreman also were wounded, but not seriously.

TWO MINERS KILLED

LETTERS THREATEN ROOSEVELT; GUARDS FOR EX-PRESIDENT

Warning Given of Attempt of Former Prisoner to Attack Him—Campaign Speeches

OYSTER BAY, Oct. 25.—On account of a number of threatening letters received by Colonel Roosevelt and the presence in Oyster Bay of a stranger who attempted today to make his way into the Colonel's house, steps were taken tonight to guard the life of the ex-President.

A tentative decision was reached to engage one or two men to protect Colonel Roosevelt during the rest of the campaign and for a time thereafter, if the Colonel has not recovered sufficiently by election day to be able to defend himself.

Colonel Roosevelt's condition continued to improve today and his physicians said he would be able to speak at the Madison Square Garden meeting in New York on Wednesday night, if no unforeseen complications arise. But he would be unable to do any further campaigning.

The men who attempted to see Colonel Roosevelt arrived in Oyster Bay this afternoon and set out on foot for Sagamore Hill. He was met at the door by the Colonel's secretary and insisted that he must see the ex-President, although told that no visitors were being received.

He was a tall, well dressed man, with a flowing black mustache and a sombrero which gave him the appearance of a Westerner. He would give no reason for asking to see the Colonel, but persisted in his demands until he was cut off sharply and told to leave Sagamore Hill. He then asked to see Mrs. Roosevelt. The Colonel's secretary finally persuaded him that it was useless and he went away.

The stranger returned to the village and wrote a long rambling letter to Colonel Roosevelt. Then he disappeared.

GRANKS PERSISTENT

The attempt on Colonel Roosevelt's life was the subject of Dr. Walter Oyster Bay, one of the Colonel's physicians, to have stirred up "cranks" and to be responsible for the letters which Roosevelt has received since his return to Oyster Bay. In some of them threats have been made against the Colonel and it was decided that the danger of another attempt to assassinate him was sufficient to make it necessary to guard him.

The Colonel's physicians wish to have him out of doors as soon as possible, believing that he will be benefited greatly by doing so, but they are unwilling to risk the chance of another attack. It is probable that he will be kept in the house for a while longer until he has been provided.

Dr. Walter received a letter of warning today from John M. Waldron, an appointment clerk in the office of Governor Dix at Albany. Waldron wrote that a man who had been made against the ex-President had been taken into the hospital in Chicago while Colonel Roosevelt was there during the Roosevelt administration, and at that time had written a letter threatening the life of the President.

Colonel Roosevelt is in good condition and his wound is progressing favorably, but he is not yet able to receive visitors for some days. Unless some unforeseen complications should arise, he will be able to speak for twenty or thirty minutes on Wednesday night, but he must return to bed and not attempt to campaign.

WILSON NOT CONSULTED

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25.—Governor Woodrow Wilson tonight in explaining a speech by William Jennings Bryan in Michigan today with reference to a pre-convention contribution of $12,500 by Cyrus H. McCormick, charged that this money had been returned to McCormick by Cleveland H. Dodge.

The governor said he had not been consulted in the transaction and that it took place within the last ten days. When informed about Bryan's speech, he had said the following:

Governor Wilson tonight confirmed Mr. Bryan's statement reported from Oxford, Mich., that the $12,500 contributed by his classmate, Mr. Cyrus H. McCormick, to the pre-convention fund, had been returned. He said, however, Mr. Bryan must have been in part misquoted. The money was returned, but not at my request. It was done on the initiative of Mr. Dodge and Mr. McCormick themselves. They have illustrated again what they are capable of doing in such a way as to help me and yet leave me free.

Governor Wilson said he did not know of McCormick's contribution to his pre-convention fund until after he had been nominated for President. He said that McCormick's contribution was made as one of a group of "Princeton friends" from whom Dodge obtained support for the Wilson campaign.

The money was given to McCormick, Wilson's manager, in a lump sum by Dodge, who did not designate the individual contributions. The governor said that Dodge was not the treasurer of his pre-convention campaign, but merely a contributor.

MARSHALL STARTS EAST

SEATTLE, Oct. 25.—Governor Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana, Democratic vice presidential candidate, tonight started to return eastward at the end of the first half of his 7000 mile campaigning trip from Chicago to the Pacific Coast states.

After addressing a large gathering in the Seattle coliseum late today, Governor Marshall took train for Spokane, where he is scheduled to deliver a speech tomorrow.

Despite the strenuous itinerary which he has followed since leaving Indianapolis ten days ago, the Indiana executive appeared in excellent form.

During his speeches today he emphasized his arguments, calling upon the people to take back into their own hands control of governmental affairs. Also, he attacked President Taft and Colonel Roosevelt for their attitude on the trusts and pleaded for a lower tariff as the best means of handling the trust situation.

"You can't elect a brewer to a seat in your state legislature," said the governor, "and expect him to vote for prohibition. Neither can you send a railroad attorney to Congress and expect him to use his influence against corporate control."

"That isn't natural and it won't work. All the training and all the experience of a corporation lawyer has been to protect and aid the trusts and you can't expect him to change the habits of thought of a lifetime merely by electing a man to Congress."

Governor Marshall insisted that it was absolutely essential to Democratic success that Democratic senators and representatives be elected from Washington and took up considerable time in the interests of local candidates.

Governor Marshall and Mrs. Marshall were guests of Mayor George J. Connelley of Seattle and Democratic state leaders at dinner tonight, shortly before their departure for Everett.

O'GORMAN ON TARIFF

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—Senator James A. O'Gorman, of New York, made two speeches here tonight, urging legislation of a tariff. He said that all the conflicting issues in the presidential campaign hinge upon the tariff, which the Democratic party is pledged to reduce.

"Some of the paramount issues is the tariff, some the high cost of living, and some the trusts," he said in his chief address. "The truth is they are interlocked and constitute a single problem, the tariff, trusts, and the cost of living."

"There are no 'infant industries' now. The woolen industry, the highest protected industry in the United States, pays the lowest average rate of duty in the world. It has been driven from the mills and the places filled by recent immigrants who constitute 55 per cent of the employees of the plants in Lawrence, Mass."

The present tariff imposes a tax of $115 annually on every family in the country. Of this amount sixteen dollars goes to government and ninety-nine dollars to the trusts. They tax a man's food, his furniture, his clothes and his house. He competes in a free labor market. American labor must enter into competition with the last to arrive in this country.

"The cost of living has increased 60 per cent in fifteen years. Tariff duties have averaged 30 per cent under the Dingley bill were increased to 60 per cent under the Payne-Aldrich bill. Neither Taft nor Roosevelt can remedy these evils, because neither could not change a House or a Senate in accord with him."

"When President McKinley died, the total amount of securities issued by corporations amounted to less than four billions. Now the total capitalization of the country is over thirty billions. The encroachments of the powerful few on the rights of the many go unchecked. The partnership between government and privilege must cease. Monopolies must be destroyed, not licensed to prey."

MCCORMICK MONEY RETURNED

ROCHESTER, Mich., Oct. 25.—In several of his addresses in Michigan today W. J. Bryan declared that the Democratic national committee had returned to Cyrus H. McCormick of Chicago his contribution of $12,500 which he gave some time ago to the Wilson campaign fund. Mr. Bryan stated that explanation for the return of the money had been made by Treasurer Dodge in a letter to McCormick. The letter Bryan said, stated that it was thought best to return it so that the money could not be charged to the Wilson campaign with being indebted to any person or corporation which may be or has been a party to litigation brought by the government.

CLARK IN COLORADO

PUEBLO, Colo., Oct. 25.—Speaker Champ Clark closed the last day of his campaign in Colorado and Wyoming here tonight at the opera house, which was filled to completeness. At 4 o'clock this afternoon he spoke at Colorado Springs. At midnight tonight he was enroute to Kansas City.

In discussing the political issues, he justly declared that the Republican protective tariff was responsible for the big corn crop of Missouri.

SEN. BLACK IS TO BE ARRAIGNED ON FRIDAY

SAN JOSE, Oct. 25.—Marshall Black, late secretary of the Palo Alto Mutual Building and Loan Association, was taken into Judge Richards' court for arraignment this morning, but upon the request of his attorney, Louis O'Neal, arraignment was continued until next Friday morning at 10 o'clock. The defendant asked for an order permitting him to go in the sheriff's custody to his home in Palo Alto for one day to look after some of his personal affairs, but the court declined to take such action, stating that the prisoner was in the care of the sheriff, who could use his own judgment in the matter as he was alone responsible for Black's safekeeping. It was finally understood that Sheriff Langford would accompany Black to Palo Alto some day next week.

SANTA FE TO HAVE DOUBLE TRACKS TO COAST

Appropriation Is Made for New Line From Chicago;
Work Now Under Way
Crew Starts at Albuquerque;
400 Miles of Rails Already Spiked

The Santa Fe has started work on the double-tracking of its entire system from Chicago to San Francisco. According to information given out by local Santa Fe men yesterday, 400 miles of double tracks have been laid. Work was started last summer at Albuquerque, New Mexico, and a large force of men has been building the new line in the direction of California. After the double-tracking is completed between Albuquerque and Chicago, the big crews will return to New Mexico and start work in the direction of California. Part of the system in the Middle West has been double-tracked for years, or since the new main line to Chicago was put through Oklahoma. With the old route still in operation, the Santa Fe is given about 600 miles of double track.

In California the main line is being gone over as rapidly as possible. The crew has already crossed the state line and is now working in the vicinity of Needles. Out of Barstow double tracks have been laid in both directions. The same thing applies to the valley line between Fresno and Clovis. A distance of three miles of double tracks are now being spiked to the ties. The road bed has been graded and all the material is on the ground, leaving only the laying of the tracks to complete the double line south of Clovis.

From Albuquerque it is hoped to work toward Richmond by first laying to Needles, thence to Barstow and over the mountains to the valley. From Barstow the work will be rushed to Clovis. Then will come the jump to Fresno and work will be pushed from here to the bay cities. The estimated cost of the undertaking is over a million dollars and may reach two millions before the entire system is covered.

The Santa Fe hopes to put its main line on a par with the modern constructed roads of the eastern states, for instance, the lines running between Chicago and New York. Double tracks all the way from Chicago to the coast it is believed the train schedule can be made much faster and insure better service for the traveling public. Even with the double track system the block signals will be kept in use in order to make safety the slogan. Not only will the overland passenger trains run on a faster schedule, but the freight trains will make better time.

HELENA, Mont., Oct. 25.—The Republican state central committee will meet here tomorrow to select a candidate for Congress in place of W. F. Myers, who died in Butte last night.

MOTOR CAR TO BE PUT INTO SERVICE

Santa Fe Plans Improvement in Schedule Between
Here and Stockton

Plans have been made by officials of the Santa Fe to install a motor car service between Fresno and Stockton. The car to come south in the morning and return in the afternoon or vice versa. The plan is to use motor car No. M 100 for a few weeks and if the service proves satisfactory a steam train will be put on to replace it and thus keep up the standard. This motor car, which has been in the regular shops for several weeks, arrived here yesterday.

No time tables have been prepared and it is not known by local officials as to what date the new service will become effective. The Merced people are anxious for a motor car or local train and Riverbank has asked for the new service. The first plan was to run between Stockton and Fresno daily, but if this schedule cannot be worked out satisfactorily the motor car will go as far north as Riverbank which is 100 miles from here, and make two round trips daily. Merced, Riverbank and Fresno are the cities to be considered first, it is stated. The motor car has been remodeled with several improvements made in the construction.

The first motors put into service by the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific failed to live up to expectations and were unable to stand the strain of daily work. After a few months trial most of the time of which the cars were in the repair shops, they were relegated to the barn and steam trains installed. The Southern Pacific is now running steam trains to Clovis and Priant on the schedules formerly maintained by the motor cars.

NEARLY $105,000 IS TAKEN IN AS TAXES

$80,000 of This Money Has Been Turned Into the County Treasury

With second payment of $50,000 made yesterday, the county treasury has been enriched by a total of $80,000 out of the tax collections amounting to $104,833.88 to date.

The collections this year on the first installment, reported Casser Smith, have been double and almost triple what they were last year for the same period, notwithstanding the very general complaint this year that the tax bills are so high. The daily collections for the two weeks have been:

Nov. 14	$5,855.42
Nov. 15	$5,444.10
Nov. 16	$4,233.84
Nov. 17	$6,013.69
Nov. 18	$5,618.72
Nov. 19	$3,178.96
Nov. 20	$4,895.58
Nov. 21	$3,329.62
Nov. 22	$5,524.42
Nov. 23	$2,228.08
Nov. 24	$3,589.42
Nov. 25	$3,589.42

The collections of yesterday were made up as follows: State and county $2,229.04; Fresno City $2,226.33; Selma, $108.10; Kingsburg, $25.34; Fowler, $28.16; Clovis, $24.43 and Sanger $28.20.

PLAY WITH DYNAMITE; ONE BOY IS BLINDED

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 24.—Three small boys, ambitious to become jugglers, practiced with dynamite caps which they mistook for pebbles, and today one of them, Jesse Wallace, 10 years old, is in the county hospital, blind in both eyes, hands seriously mutilated and probably fatally injured. The other boys, Harold Burnell, aged 7, and Gamble Vienna, 12, ran away from the Oak Hill park orphanage to join Jesse, with whom they went to a grading camp. There they found a locked box, which besides the dynamite caps, contained twenty sticks of dynamite. They broke the box open with rocks. They ignored the dynamite and took the caps only, thinking they would be good with which to practice juggling.

PUBLISHED BY

CRESTEN H. HOWELL, Editor and Manager

NONE SO BLIND

We are sorry to see so voluminous a contributor as Frank H. Short again fall into the bad habit of misquotation. In a communication to the Republican yesterday, Mr. Short quotes Colonel Roosevelt as saying in 1904: "Under no circumstances will I ever again be a candidate for President," and speaks of Governor Johnson as referring to the President of the United States as "one of the most discreditable figures in American history." Of course neither of these statements was ever made, by Colonel Roosevelt or Governor Johnson. It is only a few weeks ago that Mr. Short, in a similar communication, attributed to Colonel Roosevelt another statement which he had later to concede was never made. That experience should have been a warning against further misquotation this time.

Mr. Short's memory is equally as faulty as to the origin of the Progressive movement. He attributes it to the tariff question, and puts the Progressives on the free-trade side of that. Even if this were true, it could hardly be regarded as a reproach by Mr. Short, who is supporting the free-trade ticket himself this year. Moreover, if it were true, it would follow that President Taft was a free-trader and that the Republican platform, four years ago, was a free-trade platform. For the insurgent bolt on the tariff question, which Mr. Short mistakenly regards as the origin of the Progressive movement, was itself nothing more than a demand that the tariff plank of 1908 be carried out, in the sense then elucidated by President Taft. If that is free trade, then everybody is a free-trader, except the infinitesimal stand-pat minority, in whose behalf Mr. Short now supports the free-trade candidate. But the reasoning is very like that of our ancestors, who called every language they could not understand "Welsh." Mr. Short does not understand the Progressive policy on the tariff. Therefore he calls it "free-trade," which is simply a general term for any variation from traditional stand-pat-ism. It is just another case of "Taffy was a Weichman."

A similar disability seems to be reflected in Mr. Short's explanation of his inability to comprehend what the Democratic opposition is about, but his inability to grasp what the Progressives are driving at. "We must have the Democrats upon equal grounds," he says. "They have a policy and a belief, and we likewise have a policy and a belief, and we oppose and respect each other." Mr. Short might have added "and therefore support the same candidate." But when it comes to the Progressives, Mr. Short confesses that he does not respect them, and shows that he does not understand them.

The trouble is that the stand-pat Republicans and the Democrats are aligned on the two sides of issues whose existence Mr. Short recognizes, while the chief emphasis of the Progressives is on new issues which were not in controversy when Mr. Short's traditional convictions were acquired, and whose existence he therefore does not now recognize. To be on either of the old sides of the old tariff question is comprehensible. To present a new aspect, even of that question, and to lay the main stress on even other questions, which at one time were not discussed—that is too new a phenomenon to fit into any of the ready-made pigeon-holes of traditional political thought. Hence this confusion.

Mr. Short even fails to understand how the Republicans of California, by majority vote at the primaries, could give the party indorsement to candidates who also have the nomination of another party. Mr. Short had no difficulty in understanding that when only the Democratic and Republican parties were in question. It was easy to understand when A. B. Smith, Republican nominee for tax collector of Fresno county, was also nominated by the Democrats. It was not incomprehensible when Congressman Knowland received both the Republican and the Democratic nominations. It was even plain enough, when John D. Works received the indorsement of the Democratic primaries, as well as the Republican plurality, for United States senator. And it does not strain the understanding when Eddie Wolfe's Republican organization in the state, or Mr. Short's Republican organization in Fresno county, endorse the Democratic candidate for President. From tax collector to President, the thing is easy and familiar—provided you consider only the Republican and Democratic parties, to which the mind is accustomed. Everything, in fact, is easy, except the proposition that the California Republican indorsement shall be determined by the vote of the California Republican primaries, and that it can be given to so new a thing as the National Progressive nominees, as readily as to so familiar a thing as the Democratic nominees. When you introduce this new and unaccustomed factor, then the nominations, like the issues, become incomprehensible. It is all Welsh.

We are sorry Mr. Short does not understand. We are still sorer that he misquotes. But we will try to help him with both—with the misquotation by correcting them, and with the incomprehension by elucidating them. Heally, it is not so Welsh, after all, if you will just listen right.

SINCERE?

The game of "undermining" is being industriously pursued. And the chief play, just at present, is to ask, in tones of mock-serious anxiety, "Is Roosevelt sincere?"

Of course he is! He has given every pledge, of effort, of sacrifice, and of devotedness, that a man can give, even to the very fading of death.

But suppose he were not. To what point would it be? Certainly the movement which he leads is sincere. The Progressive movement in Chicago was recorded by even the hostile critics, who came to scoff, as the most impressively sincere body of men that ever assembled in America. The Progressive platform is conceded, by the intelligent even among its critics, to be the most sincere attempt to grapple with present-day problems that has been put forth since those problems began to be serious. Among the leaders of the Progressive movement are some of the most conscientiously sincere persons in America. Jane Addams' whole life is a symphony of sincerity. Clifford Pinchot is a man whose sincere devotion to the public good has been an inspiration to this generation. The frankest students and writers on public and social problems in America are almost all for Roosevelt. Almost every philanthropist and social worker in America is active for him. These are the persons whose pledge of sincerity is the devotion of their lives to the good of others. Almost every public man in America whose life has been a moral instruction is for Roosevelt. These people all recognize Roosevelt as their leader; they believe in his sincerity, and many of them date their own devotion to the public service from his example. Whatever his personal quality, the organized force which he has turned loose is the highest and the sincerest thing in America. And it is that great force of organized sincerity that counts—not the secret soul of the leader. If Roosevelt were merely such a consummate actor, such a successful hypocrite, as to bring and hold together this great force for good, then, just as an impersonal political force, he would be quite as useful as if his innermost heart were sincere. The suspicion of his sincerity, if it were justified, would not be important. And of course it is not justified. No man can so long, so vividly and so genuinely inspire others without being inspired himself. The most moving moral force in American public life could not be a black-souled hypocrite—and he is not. He is a simple, straightforward, honestly devoted and patriotic man—with a peculiar genius for dramatic leadership, whose usefulness is recognized even by those to whose tastes it does not appeal.

A MODEST HERO

One of the freak results of the new law, requiring newspapers to publish the names of their owners and security holders, has been the revelation of the ownership of the San Francisco Post. According to the affidavit of the business manager of that reliable journal, its sole owner and also its sole creditor is one C. H. Wilson, who happens to be an inconspicuous attorney, with offices in Pat Calhoun's building. Just now he is on a trip to Europe.

Mr. Wilson is a new pattern of self-effacing modesty. Evidently he is a multi-millionaire, or he could not afford to own a newspaper whose deficit is many thousands monthly. The financial condition of a newspaper is not guesswork. The quality and quantity of its output is all visible, and any competent newspaper manager can tell what it costs. Its revenues from advertising are also computable, by any one with a foot rule, a rate card, and an elementary knowledge of the multiplication table. Therefore the statement of a large deficit monthly is not guesswork, but a visible, indisputable fact. If the Post gets full rates, from all its subscribers and all its advertisers, (and it is known that it falls far short of this) it could not come within $2,000 a week of paying its running expenses. All this deficit Mr. Wilson, unknown attorney, cheerfully pays, and does not even ask the glory of having his name known, until the law compels its publication.

Mr. Wilson is also a philanthropist. For the business failure of the Post is voluntary. It is due to its policy. By supporting the Calhoun side of everything, in San Francisco, and the down-and-out stand-pat side of things generally, it deliberately courts this great business loss. Of course Mr. Wilson does all this from conviction, and thereby contributes a fortune, every year, to a cause which would otherwise have no such uncompromising and faithful representation in San Francisco. Surely Patrick Calhoun must be appreciative of a friend so true.

But pardon us the word "appreciative." That sometimes has a materialistic connotation. "Appreciation" is sometimes expressed by sordid tokens. Let us dispel such an illusion. For if Calhoun's appreciation of Mr. Wilson's support were expressed in money, then Calhoun and not Wilson would be the real owner. And then the business manager of the Post would be a purveyor. And the well-earned reputation of the Post for impeccable veracity would be smirched. Banish the suggestion.

Also, far be it from us to suggest that the postal authorities investigate this mysterious Mr. Wilson, who throws away his millions so silently for other people's benefit. To be sure, if this law is not carried out in good faith, if brokers and baiters are to pose as "owners," then the law will be worse than a farce. But of course that question must be settled in some case where there is real doubt. In the case of the Post there can be none. C. H. Wilson is the real owner of the Post. For the Post itself has said it—and sworn to it.

Say Roosevelt Is Dangerous

Every non-producer, wearing an extra chin or two and sitting in a padded chair, waiting for the turn of a ticker to give him something for nothing, is against the Colonel and regards him as "dangerous."—Chicago Enterprise.

To Theodore Roosevelt

(This sonnet from the pen of William Watson, the great English poet, will interest many Americans as showing a British estimate of Roosevelt.) I hear a mighty people asking now: Who next shall be their captain and their leader?

Amidst them towers a man, as Tennessee's towers from the ocean, and that man art thou—

Thou of the shaggy and craggy brow, The day of fate comes on; the time grows brief;

Round the great ship is many a lurking reef; And wouldst thou drive once more that giant prow?

Perhaps thou shalt and must! But if the choice Fall on a lesser voyager, thou shalt still

Be what thou art, thy nation's living voice, Wherever she speaks in thunder.

Nay, thou art more; Thou art her fiery pulse, her conquering will; Thou art America, dauntless Theodore.

Of the Stuff Heroes Are Made

When the Mammoth Caves in the state of Kentucky are fully explored and their mysterious depths penetrated, they will be found to be the hiding place of all unpublished hero stories that have been written in the world and dumped into the bottomless pit by editors of dyspeptic habit and erring mind. But there is one story that we would fain rescue from the common fate of all and that is the story of Little Willie Ruth, the newsboy hero of Gary, Indiana, who saved his life that a girl whom he had never seen and who had been seriously burned—might live. Fresh from the boy's leg was grafted on the burned parts and the child recovered. One hour after her departure from the hospital little Willie breathed his last, his lips still parted as he had smiled a farewell to the girl whom he saved, his little fingers in the ward. His story is replete with heroes of the battlefield and many sacrifices at the altar of war; men have died that others might live, but recruits from the humble ranks of the newsboys are few and far between. ## Unnecessary Noises

In almost all the cities of California they have started a crusade against unnecessary noise. This prohibition in city streets extends to the use of screaming devices on autos, to the use of cars with open mufflers, to any and all devices for making day and night hideous.

We make too much noise. Loudness, it must be admitted, is the prevalent tone in the country today. We go from loud talking to the making of noises with artificial aids.

As soon as a baby boy can use his hands, he is given a rattle. At his first Christmas, he gets a drum and a whistle. As the twig is bent, so the tree is inclined. When he grows up, he toots an automobile horn, clangs a trolley gong, rings a locomotive bell or blows a steamboat whistle. Now there is no doubt that these horns, gongs, bells and whistles have their proper uses. The complaint, however, is that they are used in indiscriminately without regard to whether the occasion be appropriate or inappropriate. Their use as heralds of danger are not only tolerated, but desired. When, however, an automobile horn sounds at dead of night, just for the wanton purpose of making a noise that will break the numbers of and frighten nervous people, or when a locomotive engineer rings his bell or blows his whistle in the same wanton spirit, the anger that ensues is wholly justifiable. Here in Porterville we have been

U. S. GEOLOGICAL SURVEY FURNISHES
DETAILED REPORT ON ALASKA COAL

Like a great curved dagger, 120 miles in thickness at the hilt and trending south and west for a distance of nearly 600 miles, the Alaska Peninsula presents one of the most striking of land formations. Beyond it stretches the chain of the Aleutian Islands a thousand miles farther. The coast line of the peninsula is rugged and irregular, with innumerable indentations and bold cliffs and headlands.

"The Geology and Mineral Resources of Parts of Alaska Peninsula" is the title of a report by Wallace W. Atwood, recently issued by the United States Geological Survey. During the Russian occupation of Alaska many facts concerning the geology of the peninsula were collected, but the study by Dall and Becker, of the Geological Survey, of the coal and gold deposits of Unalaska Island and of some of the coal beds of the mainland in 1895 represents the first attempt at systematic investigation of the mineral resources. Martin, in 1903 and 1904, made the first examination of the petroleum seeps. Meanwhile other investigators had contributed to the knowledge of the general geology.

The prosecution of the Survey's general plan of investigating the coal resources of Alaska led to Mr. Atwood's work, which included the three most important local coal fields, the Chukchi Herenden Bay and Unalaska. Incidentally he collected considerable information in regard to the general geology and mineral resources of the entire peninsula.

COAL FIELDS ACCESSIBLE

The coal of Alaska peninsula is not of as high grade as that of the Bering river and Matanuska fields, but the fields are more accessible. The fields described in the survey report are all now good, a location that will give them an advantage over the higher grade coals of other Alaska fields. Moreover, their close proximity to the great circle route from Puget Sound to Yokohama will certainly eventually accrue to their benefit, though it must be confessed that their immediate use for transportation is not so practical. On the other hand unless petroleum is found, they furnish the only local source of fuel for Alaska peninsula, which is without timber.

Some drilling for oil has been done on the peninsula, but has not shown the presence or the absence of a commercially valuable field. It appears, however, that the geologic data at hand warrant the continuation of the search.

So far as known geologic conditions, those on Unalaska Island, where successful gold mining has been carried on for many years, may be found in other parts of the province, so that there seems to be a field here that warrants the attention of the land inspector.

COAL FIELDS MAPPED

Mapping was done in some detail in the survey of the fields and the results are set forth with considerable confidence as to their accuracy. For less definite information was obtained as to the areal and stratigraphic geology of the peninsula. If funds are available, more detailed investigations of the geology and mineral deposits will be undertaken when the mining advancement seems to demand them. As early as 1854 attempts were made to mine coal on Cook Inlet. Coal claims were staked on Unalaska Island in the early seventies, and have been kept open ever since. Mining at this and other localities in southwestern Alaska was begun. The rapid development of the more accessible coal fields of California, Washington, and Vancouver Island, which began about 1870, supplanted the west coast markets for that time until very recently little attention has been given to Alaska coal. Mining to supply local demand has threatened with an adequate traffic law which will include a prohibitory clause against the use of open mufflers and other obnoxious devices, but as yet the law has not been put into effect. The Messenger is convinced that nine-tenths of the people would applaud such a law, however, that this includes those who are the very worst offenders.—Porterville Messenger.

however, continued in the peninsula to the present day.

Except for the absence of timber, the conditions in Alaska Peninsula are more favorable for mining than in many other parts of the Territory. The open season is longer and the winter is less severe than in the interior or in Seward Peninsula. Numerous good harbors are open to navigation throughout the year. The luxuriant growth of grass in the peninsula, except in the high mountains, favors the use of horses, and the many streams and lakes render much of the region readily accessible to small boats. The report contains a large-scale map of the peninsula. A copy may be obtained free on application to the Director of the Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.—U. S. Geological Survey Bulletin.

SOCIETY

One of the largest affairs at which the high school contingent have frolicked for a long time, was the entertainment given last night in the auditorium at which the members of the Girls' Glee Club were the hostesses. The affair was a masquerade, and in keeping with the Halloween season, the hall was lighted by Jack O'Lanterns, and a huge witch's cauldron was arranged on the stage. Games were played, and informal dancing was enjoyed. Miss Winifred Fletcher presided at the piano. Several faculty members acted as chaperones on this occasion. They were Miss Morgan and Miss Helen Crandall, Messrs. Stagner and George C. Huntington.

The hostesses for the evening were Misses Bessie Bryant, Lucille Ellis, Edna Ingels, Marion Healey, Fignon Nudd, Dorothy Rigan, Ilanah Schuck, Edith Hutchinson, Georgie Elkins, Annelle Corley, Katherine Avery, Elizabeth Boyd, Imogene Fletcher, Dora Carline, Irma Johnson, Lucille Mand, Ruth Stutzman, Rippie Mittenbush, Elva Sessler, Edna Wright, Hazel Manley, Alice Shields, Virginia Ellis, Ruth Avery, Margaret Hofer, Virginia Baldwin, Gladys Gilliland, Madeline and Madge Goddard, Gladys Baker, Louise Lauritzen, Florence Marshall, Bessie Hart, Miriam and Muriel McHenry, Agnes Newwanger, Ruth Marston, Effie McCausland, Ruth Moore, Marguerite East, Nadine Madison, Esther Slenans, Helen Headley, Miss Julia Harris, director.

Their guests included the following: Earl Wooster, George Hopkins, Bruce McCubbin, Ray Prior, Elbert Wallen, Fred Pescott, Ned Williams, Newton Hyrd, Everett Hickman, Donald Leydon, William Harding, Earl Gearhart, Lloyd Webster, Theodore Madson, Alexander Strother, Malcolm Crawford, Charles Doty, Murray Copeland, Maurice Copeland, Earl Granger, Charles Hobbs, Jerrold Owen, Albert Van Bargon, Irving Toomey, Jay Potte, Wayne Clanton, George Alexander, Carson Henningsen, William Kendall, Edwin Locke, Neil Keifer, Beverly Cutler, Lloyd Austin, Robert Munce, Hugo Sigmond, Frederick Twining, John Malcolm, Lloyd Anderson, Harold Hart, Will Ingebrach, Roy Davidson, Harold Shipp, Alfred Rasmussen, Louisa Dodge, Ned Ferguson, Charles Gilbert, Charles Ellis, Howard MBB, Wagner Sanabuck, Ray Fox, George Kemper and Hollis Peterson.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Kimble, of San Francisco, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Patterson for a short while.

Miss Helen Rogers will spend a few days in Hanford next week, being one of the invited guests at the dancing party which Mrs. John O'Rourke is giving on next Thursday evening in the Women's club house. In company with her daughter, Miss Marie O'Rourke, and also Miss Isabel Williamson, of Washington, D. C. Miss Rogers will spend part of her time as the guest of Miss Ethel Esrey.

Mr. and Mrs. William Marshall will leave next week in their machine for two weeks' trip down the coast to Los Angeles.

Mrs. George M. Boles has as her guest this week, Miss Eleanor Holland, of Vienna.

Mrs. Thomas W. Patterson entertained the members of the Friday Afternoon Club very delightfully yesterday afternoon at her home on Tulare street, the customary rounds of bridge filling in several hours pleasantly. The living rooms were ornate with autumn blossoms culled from the spacious gardens about the residence. Mrs. Calvin Hill and Mrs. L. A. Nares substituted for absent members. Mrs. Frank M. Ronald held highest score at the conclusion of the games. Mrs. W. W. Cross will be the club's hostess next Friday afternoon.

Miss Myrtle Paris and Miss Winifred Fletcher have issued very attractive Halloween cards with alluring figures, inviting a number of friends to a Halloween party at the home of Miss Paris on P street, on Wednesday evening.

Miss Doris Hudson was the hostess at a merry Halloween celebration last evening at the P. M. Chittenden residence on J street. The early part of the evening was spent at the Fresno Photo Theater after which the party returned to Miss Hudson's home, where seasonable decorations made the setting for the affair unusually attractive. Jack O'Lanterns grined their welcome, and in a room hung with white brocade and tapestries presided an attractive little Oriental lady who dispensed fortunes with great generosity, and it was some little time before her patrons guessed that she was Miss Ethel Shaver. In the dining room where a Halloween supper was served, bunches of purple grapes and clusters of bronze chrysanthemums made the scene ornate. All manner of little Halloween novelties and favors graced the table where were seated about forty-five of Miss Hudson's friends. The party broke up at a late hour with merry huffing of ribbon confetti.

Mrs. Clinton Collins entertained the Bridgeclub yesterday at their usual rounds of bridge, her attractive apartments on I street being prettily ornamented for the occasion with huge vases filled with golden chrysanthemums. Mr. Constantine Beveridge received the souvenir for the afternoon for holding the highest score. The substitutes on this occasion were Misses Bernice Pierce, Bertha Colwell, of Montana, and Jeaneey Brooks. The club members will be the guests of Misses George and Eva Clark at their meeting next week.

Mrs. Albert Harris left yesterday for Taft to spend some time with her son William G. Harris.

Miss Katherine McAdam of San Francisco was made the guest of entertainment at a delightfully informal house dance given by her hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Minton at their home on Yosemite avenue last night. The guest list numbered sixteen.

The Friday Study Club met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank Cardwell on N street, contributing the study of Shakespeare's "Henry IV," under the tutelage of Mrs. W. P. Miller.

The study topic for next meeting will be English history, with particular consideration of English feudalism.

Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Mann will leave today for San Francisco to spend a couple of weeks in the Bay region.

Mrs. N. Johnson entertained a number of children with a Halloween party yesterday afternoon in celebration of the 8th birthday of her little son, Elmer Johnson. After an afternoon of informal games, the best part of the affair was given, the birthday feast. The table was appropriately decked with Halloween favors, and with a delicious cake glittering with lighted candles.

Among the little guests were Maxwell Rohring, Charles, Mary and Jack Norton, Harold and Eleanor Newman, Annie Lindberg, George Seymour, Earl Bettridge, George Anderson, Albert and Floyd Johnson, Helen Machen, Helen with Charles Cox, Clara Peters and Donald Brewster.

The Jolly Twelve Five Hundred Club enjoyed the hospitality of Mrs. E. W. Holcomb yesterday afternoon at her home on J street. Roses and dahlias were charmingly arranged in decoration of the living rooms, and after several rounds of the usual game, prizes were awarded to Mrs. H. A. Smith and Mrs. Hugh Sparkman for highest scores. Refreshments concluded the affair.

Mrs. T. J. McKinley and Mrs. W. S. Lowe were substitutes for the afternoon. Mrs. E. S. Van Meter will be the club's next hostess at her home, 421 Ertle street.

Mrs. Frank Wyatt and Mrs. W. M. Wyatt will entertain a number of friends at an informal party at the country home of the former this afternoon. About thirty-five guests have been bidden.

Mrs. H. P. Cotton of 1533 Angus street was hostess Thursday evening, entertaining a number of friends who gathered shortly for her home in Oregon. Music, vocal and instrumental, was the order of the entertainment. The parlors were decorated with great quantities of yellow and white chrysanthemums, and at a late hour an elaborate supper was served.

Messrs. and Mesdames Hagman, Anderson, Kurston, John Berry, H. G. Kemp, T. J. McAlpine, Bert Primrose, J. H. Henderson, C. W. Harlow, Plinkinton, H. P. Cotton, Mrs. Specker, Misses Emma and Opal Specker, Miss Violet Cotton, Mr. Ruschaupt and Leland Harris.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church will hold its annual sewing bee next Friday in the basement of the church. It is desired that all contributions to the Christmas boxes be brought on that day. The sewing session will be held all day.

The Y. P. L. Club entertained with the first of a series of parties on Wednesday evening at Recreation Park, which they have scheduled for the winter. About 100 invitations were issued for the affair.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Christian church entertained last evening in the church parlors the students of the Normal school and Health's Business college being guests on this occasion. All sorts of fanciful decorations appropriate to Halloween were used in ornamentation of the rooms, and seasonable games were indulged in until a late hour, when tempting refreshments were served.

The Madison Club met yesterday with Mrs. John M. Luce and decided among other business to cooperate with the Y. W. C. A. and philanthropic department of the Parlor Lecture Club in establishing a "travelers' aid" in Fresno. Miss Julia Sayre was present and gave an interesting talk soliciting their cooperation.

TAFT PEOPLE WILL NOT ADVISE AS TO PRESIDENT

Many Members of Committee Sign Wilson Roll at Meeting

Decide, However, to Endorse All Republican Nominees, Save Electors

The members of the Taft Republican committee in Fresno county, met yesterday afternoon in the office of Frank H. Short for the purpose of considering matters in regard to presidential, legislative and county tickets before the election. The members of the executive committee and the campaign committee were present at the meeting.

No action was taken regarding the vote of the Taft people a week from next Tuesday, as it was decided best not to make any recommendations. As a result it is probable that many of the Taft Republicans will write in the names of Taft electors.

A roll of the state Republican Wilson club, was brought to the meeting and several members of the Taft committee signed it as individuals. It was not signed by all the members of the committee, according to a statement made by Frank H. Short, after the meeting.

While refusing to make any recommendation on a committee, as to how Taft supporters should vote against Roosevelt, the committee yesterday voted to endorse all Republican nominees, save the Progressive electors. This includes congress, legislative and supervisory candidates.

The committee also voted to give $150 to the campaign of Congressman Needham.

The meeting was not of any great length, owing to the fact that the Taft people have not been able to conduct an active campaign, but was called particularly for the purpose of closing up affairs for this campaign.

It was stated that the committee will continue in existence, to be used later when other campaigns are started.

OFFICERS ORDERED TO WALK PRISONERS TO COUNTY BASTILE

Policemen Wear Out Much Shoe Leather; Drunks Reach Jail Sober

Strict orders that anyone arrested who is able to navigate at all must be walked to jail and not hauled in a wagon have been issued by Chief of Police Jones, and as a result the custodians of the peace are compelled to wear out much more shoe leather than in the past. The orders were given because it is said that the department had too big a bill every month for hauling. While the officers are obeying the orders, it is reported that many are dissatisfied, as the walk to jail is considerable distance from the outlying districts, and an officer is forced to spend the greater part of his time walking to and from the jail in place of walking his beat. Another objection is that by the time an intoxicated man is walked to jail he is generally as sober as the arresting officer, and the policemen has some hesitation about charging him with drunkenness. In the past the officers have been at liberty to call an express wagon and haul a drunken man to jail in place of walking through the public streets. Chief Jones received his instructions from the higher officials.

MORE BULL MOOSE BADGES RECEIVED

Republican Committee Has Already Given Out 8,000; Now Have 5,000

The Republican county central committee has just received 5,000 more Bull Moose badges for distribution in the county. The committee has already distributed 8,000 badges in Fresno county and this will make a total of 13,000 badges.

The sentiment in the county is said to be stronger for Roosevelt than it ever was, and a noticeable change in the situation has been witnessed in the past few weeks.

Some evidence has been contributed to the increased demand for Bull Moose buttons. When the buttons were first received the demand was not very heavy, but in the last two or three weeks the Republican committee has constantly been besieged to parties who want the buttons to wear.

BOY MURDERER IS GRANTED FREEDOM

Bentura Mendoza Leaves Jail and Boards Train for Home in Mexico

Bentura Mendoza, a Mexican youth who stabbed Paul Lava at Selma last summer, the injuries resulting in death, was yesterday released from the county jail by an order issued by Superior Judge Austin and was taken to the Southern Pacific depot and boarded a train for Mexico. The lad was released from custody with the understanding he would leave the United States and not return until he reached his majority. During a drunken fight at Selma last August Mendoza stabbed Lava in the arm with his pocket knife. Lava crawled into his tent and died from the loss of blood.

Mendoza was trailed to Fowler by Sheriff McSwain and placed under arrest several hours later. He at first denied stabbing Lava but when confronted with witnesses, who saw him run from the tent, he admitted the charge. Mendoza was charged with murder but at the request of Assistant District Attorney McCormick, the charge was reduced to manslaughter which the Mexican youth pleaded guilty.

SAMPLE BALLOTS ARE STARTED OUT

Postage Bill Alone Will Be $602 to Serve Every Voter in County

It will cost the county clerk $602 for postage and other literature for the November election to the 30,000 registered voters in the county. The postage on each envelope is 2 cents, double what it has been before because the constitutional amendments are printed in circular form instead of the usual form as before. The sending of the sample ballots began yesterday and will continue daily until next Thursday, rather than dump the 20,000 envelopes into the postoffice at one time. Election supplies to the precinct polling places will be started out next Monday by express, messengers and special couriers to the distant locations.

BELIEVE SLAVERS MURDERED WOMAN

Conference of Five Italians
Agreed to Put Her to Death

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 25.—Deductive evidence has been obtained by the police, Detective Captain Arnold said today, that the murder of Jennie Cavallini, a young Italian woman, near Stratford, after she had been taken there by five men in an automobile, was an act of vengeance executed upon her for having betrayed secrets of "white slave" traffickers.

Captain Arnold says the evidence shows that the matter of the woman's death was decided at a conference between the five men implicated Sunday night. At this conference the question was whether the woman should be slain with the "squad" or should be put to death. The latter was determined upon.

According to Captain Arnold, the five men came to Bridgeport under direction from certain men in the "white slave" traffic for the express purpose of making away with the woman, because she had betrayed the organization code which provides punishment or death for any person who becomes untrue or for any woman who leaves the man under whose protection she has been living. Investigation of the case, Captain Arnold declares, has failed to reveal the identity of the women.

TELL OF RIOT WHEN GIRL WAS KILLED

Policemen of Lawrence Testify Against Caruso and Fellow Accused

SALEM, Mass., Oct. 25.—Joseph Caruso, defendant with Joseph J. Egan and Arthur Giovannitti, on trial for the murder of Anna Louise, victim of the Lawrence textile strike, was declared today by witnesses to have been present when Policemen Oscar Bennett was stabbed and the Lopez girl shot on the evening of January 29th.

J. M. Marshall, a policeman who was with Bennett on that night, testified that Caruso, accompanied by Salvatore Bello, now a fugitive, stood directly behind Bennett immediately before the shooting and stabbing. Bennett himself testified that he had seen Caruso armed with a club a few minutes before he received the knife wound.

Officer Bennett when cross examined said he and Marshall, who had been left alone at Garden and Union streets, were endangered.

"What was there to be afraid of?" asked Caruso's attorney.

"The mob was all around," said Bennett. "Officer Marshall had just told me to look out, and had turned me around when I felt a blow in the back. Then I saw a flash and seemed to feel heat. I heard the report of a revolver also, and just at that moment I saw a woman on the opposite side of the street fall."

Other shots were fired in rapid succession, Bennett said, but he could not swear that the shot he felt whizz by him was the one that killed Anna Lopez.

Several militia and police officers were questioned as to whether any shots were fired and held up or pulled out. All denied that any order to shoot had been given, or that any shots were fired by men under their command.

Sergeant Walter Spranger admitted that at one time he had ordered his men to get their guns ready, but said they did not fire.

Before adjournment, Eugene Bencardo, a brother of Detective Charles Bencardo, corroborated the latter's testimony relating to the speech made to strikers by Giovannitti, advising them to "kill wild animals at night for the blood of the seas."

TRAINED CHIMPANZEE IS SUBJECT OF SUIT

PORTLAND, Oct. 25.—Did the educated chimpanzee, Charles I., owned by Charles Judge, come to his death through the neglect of his owner? This is the question which is mooted in the United States district court in this city, Judge alleging that the animal was caused to death by a train between Seattle and Portland, and the Northern Pacific Railway, the defendant, contending that it was already dead when shipped.

The defense today introduced Dr. Reid W. Blair, pathological specialist at the New York Zoological Gardens, who testified that it was possible for the chimpanzee to have expired of pneumonia within a few hours of its appearance on the stage in Seattle.

Following Dr. Blair's evidence, a large amount of time was consumed in distinguishing the difference in value between trained and untrained chimpanzees.

Dr. N. W. Jones, a bacteriologist of Portland, said he found the pneumonia bacteria in the carcass of the dead animal.

The remainder of the day was taken up with expert testimony on the relative value of trained and untrained monkeys.

FATHER AND GRANDMOTHER CONTEND FOR CHILDREN

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—"As their father has separated from me and should not have the custody of them, I bequeath the care of my children, Zerah and Merah to my mother."

That clause in the will of Mrs. Zerah Harris, who died in this city August 14, has precipitated a sharp contest in the juvenile court between the children's father, Elmer M. Harris, an engineer, and their grandmother, Mrs. Elmer J. Caraway.

The case reached the juvenile court when humane officers filed a petition asking that Zerah and Merah, aged 14, be declared dependent children, in order to obtain an official ruling on the unusual situation. Judge Wilbur said today he would resume the hearing of the puzzle next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris were separated because of incompatibility of temperament.

GEOLOGISTS STRIKE UNDERGROUND WATER

Highland Home Rancho Gains Irrigation Supply Through An Accident

BEAUMONT, Oct. 25.—Tunneling through an up-ended rock dyke shelving across the hills of the north part of the valley, and especially in Smith's Canyon, a crew of men working under direction of geologists, have struck into an immense natural water supply on Highland Home rancho, one of the oldest properties of Southern California.

The water supply exceeds any possible demand that might be had for its use.

It has been determined by geologists that an under-surface rock ledge, turned on edge by some early convulsion of nature, cross-cut the hills from east to west. While, during the past few months, extensive well-drilling operations were proving that the water base underlying the upper section of Beaumont valley covered a much larger area than was originally supposed, a tunnel was started through the rock dyke.

When it cost a fortune to live.

People are complaining about the high cost of living. The complaint is justifiable but those living in the South just before the close of the war had more of a kick coming to them. According to Mrs. Jefferson Davis, a hum was sold in Richmond, Virginia, for $750. Flour was $300 a barrel. Tea cost $50 a pound. Sugar sold at $600 a barrel. Chickens brought $50 a pair. Butter $15 a pound. A man's coat cost $350; a pair of boots $250. The highest article was quinine, which was declared contraband of war; this commanded $1700 an ounce.

ROSCOE PARKER IS BOUND OVER ON ARSON CHARGE

Son of Prominent Fresno
Family Must Stand Trial
in Superior Court

Ex-Convict Testifies That He Saw Parker Prepare to Burn Hotel

Without the submission of any testimony to clear the accused man of the charge of arson, but with the aid of the chief witness for the prosecution, the fire which destroyed the old Holland hotel on the night of August 29 was caused by a defective fire, the preliminary examination of Roscoe Parker was held yesterday before City Justice Graham and the defendant was bound over to the Superior Court. Parker was taken back to the county jail by Deputy Sheriff Sullivan directly after the hearing, but was released a short time later after bail had been furnished. Upon motion of the attorneys for the defense City Justice Graham reduced the bail from $3,000 to $2,000.

The fight to clear young Parker of the charge of burning down the Holland hotel to receive the $10,000 insurance on the building and furniture will be made in the higher court and it is understood that the defense will then introduce masterly evidence which, it is said, will clear Parker of the felony charge. Only two witnesses were called by the prosecution yesterday. Other witnesses were summoned, but Henry Darcey, an ex-convict, and Marion Knott were the only ones who testified.

Darcey under cross examination admitted that there was some ill-feeling between Parker and himself because of back pay. He also admitted that he had been sent to Folsom from Modesto under the name of Hurley. The nature of the crime under which he was sentenced was not brought out at the hearing.

Darcey testified that an offer had been made to him of $200 to burn the hotel while the Parker boys were away on a fishing trip at Pollasky, but that he did not carry out the plan because another man was at the hotel on the night that upon the return of Roscoe and his brother Waldron Parker and Marion Knott from the fishing trip at Pollasky he was accused by Parker, who demanded that he know who he was to set fire to the part of the work and set fire to the house. Darcey claims that he replied he could not fire the building while another person was about the place.

Darcey in his testimony said that that night after supper Roscoe came to him and asked him to come up stairs. On the second floor of the building, testified Darcey, Roscoe showed him a hole in the ceiling and poked kindling into the opening while he was there and poured gasoline or coal oil about the place. Darcey said that Roscoe remarked that the job was to come off the morning about 1 o'clock.

According to Darcey, Frank Smith, Roscoe and himself went to bed that night on the lawn. He said that Roscoe was there when he went to sleep and that later in the night he was awakened by Roscoe, shaking him and shouting that the house was on fire. Darcey said that he ran into the burning building and saved a side of bacon while Roscoe took out several rifles.

Darcey was cross examined at length by the attorneys for Parker, but his original story was not shaken. Assistant

Much Gunpowder Is Burned In "The Round Up;" Also Well Filled With Comedy

From the spectacular standpoint, or in the theatrical vernacular, as "a massive production," Klaw & Erlanger's "The Round Up" is the most ambitious effort sent out on the local stage since the days of "Ten Hours." This production has been drawn on this, and yet the later drama of life on the great ranges of Arizona falls far short in the contrast, even though the production as given last night at the Grand opera house, more than three hours in time and called into service seventeen wagon tracks of scenery, twenty bronchos and mustangs, a light artillery platoon with a rapid fire machine gun, the chuck wagon of a cow puncher, rams, and a whole arsenal of revolvers and guns for the cow punchers, vaqueros and Indians in the four acts of the play.

"The Round Up" is a play that appeals largely to the masses, and this was evidenced last night in the crowded attendance in the balcony and gallery of the theater, and the loud applause which greeted the one big scene of the play in the third act, the battle with the Apache in the desert, when at the fall of the curtain the stage was piled up with dead redskins and in poetic justice not a white man in the assaulting party "bit the dust." The melodramatic fall of western life, the spirit of the play, it is supposed to do life as it may have been during the days of woolly and unsettled southwestern Arizona and in the Bad Lands on the Mexican border, when General Sherman's army, the Apache, and his band back upon their reservation.

The basis for a romance for the plot, helped out by endless tomfoolery centering about the principal character of the play, "Slim" Hoover, sheriff of Pinal county (Maclyn Arbuckle) fills up the early scenes, leading up to the big scene of the battle in the third act. This is unquestionably one of the strongest spectacular scenes put on a stage, and so hotly that the theater is filled with the smoke and smell of sulphur.

The scene represents a deep, rock mountain gorge and the scene painter must have had the Grand Canyon of the Colorado in his mind's eye when he painted it. Mounted Indians to the number of twenty are seen to pick their way down the cliff edge trail and across the stage, and after ant District Attorney McCormick, who conducted the prosecution, clashed with Parker's attorneys several times about the testimony given by Darcey.

Marion Knott, who went on the fishing trip with the Parker boys, was called to the stand but he denied that he knew anything about the fire or that he ever heard Roscoe make the remark that he was going to set the house afire to get the insurance. Knott also testified that he knew nothing about Darcey's alleged knowledge of the affair.

Major Parker and his wife, parents of Roscoe, were in court yesterday during the hearing and sat by the side of their boy, Waldron Parker was in the hall but did not enter the court room.

Young Parker was represented in court by Attorneys Van Meter and Thiedick and Attorneys Johnston and Jones. Attorney Arthur Drew was present in the interest of the insurance companies who carried insurance on the old hotel building and the contents.

The old Holland hotel was an old landmark in this vicinity. It was built years ago and derived its name as it was located in the center of a colony of settlers from Holland. H. V. Parker purchased the place and later his sons turned it into a road house but suspended business when the county was voted "dry."

CONSUMPTIVE ENDS LIFE WITH BULLET

Body of Olaf Hansen Found in Recreation Park; Inmate at Hospital

Realizing that he would never regain his health and dependent because of this fact, Olaf Hansen, aged 27 years, a consumptive patient at the county hospital, shot himself in the mouth some time Thursday night while sitting on a bench in the rear of the open air theater in Recreation Park. The body was found yesterday morning about 8 o'clock by a man who happened to be walking through the park. The remains were taken in charge by Coroner Bean and an investigation was made by the authorities. There was no evidence to show but what Hansen had taken his own life. The revolver was gripped in his hand.

Hansen voluntarily appeared at the county hospital the 15th of this month. He said that he had no relatives in this country, but that his father, Christian Hansen, lived in Denmark. Hansen was allowed to go and come from the hospital and Thursday he was in town. He returned to the hospital about 6 o'clock but did not eat supper. He was not seen again until his body was found yesterday morning. Hansen is thought to have purchased the gun Thursday afternoon while in the city. Coroner Bean may hold the inquest today.

SWEAR HOCKIN WAS READY TO TELL ALL

Did Not Want "to Be the Only One" Caught by Prosecution

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 25.—Herbert S. Hockin, a defendant in the dynamite conspiracy trial, who succeeded John J. McNamara, the dynamite, as secretary of the iron workers' union, was identified today by four witnesses as having given information to the government against his forty-four fellow defendants.

Walter Drew, a New York counsel for the National Erectors' Association, testified that Hockin had said:

"I know they've got me, but I don't want to be the only one."

The witness said that at the sessions last winter of the federal grand jury which returned the indictments, Hockin offered to give information, but was turned away with the remark: "Go to the district attorney and make a clean breast of it. He is the only person with authority to make promises."

"Hockin came to me several times and told me my life was in danger," said Drew. He said he, Hockin, was a "black" name, Olaf Tveit, and Ed Nohels, were among them, and that he had better look out, for a fellow named John Stevens of Chicago was after me. He would warn me later when I might expect danger.

"Another time he came to my room at the United States Steel Corporation," said Drew. "He said to me, 'J. F. Fisher, a detective, arranged to let us have the key of the iron workers' office, so that we might put in a dictagraph by which we would be able at all times to record what President Frank M. Ryan and others said about the dynamite. At first Hockin said: 'You know I've got too much brains to get mixed up with McNamara.' But when I replied 'No, you haven't any brains, only a low cunning, and we've got the goods on you,' he weakened."

Drew said that a strike had been declared by the iron workers early in the year, and an explosion work of the Erectors' Association began soon after that time.

Senator J. W. Kern for the defense asked:

"Isn't one of the branches of the Erectors' Association a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation?"

"I believe it is," Drew answered.

Thomas F. Markey, a photographer, testified that he saw Hockin visit the room with bundles of papers, and later saw him in the iron workers' office when detectives visited it to secure photographs of letters. The witness said Hockin on one occasion had said: "I've got to get away from here before anyone sees me."

Guy Caldwell, an elevator boy, identified Hockin as having visited Drew's room.

When attorneys objected to a request that Hockin be sworn to tell the truth, the court said: "Stand up, Hockin; it's absurd to ask a jury to try a case without having seen the defendant."

Hockin stood up for a short time.

BONHEUR PAINTING FOUND ON COAST

Early Work of Art Brought to San Francisco From France in 1889

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25.—One of Rosa Bonheur's earliest paintings has been located in San Francisco after having been listed for two years in histories of her works as missing. The painting depicts a peasant, driving sheep and cattle down a stony road, and bears the initials "R. B. '93." In one corner, it has been positively identified by Miss Anna Klumpke of this city, and a personal friend of the artist, and is now the property of J. L. Cabill, a painter and decorator, who bought it twenty-three years ago for $60.

It was brought here from Europe in the eighties by a wealthy eccentric named Sanders or Saunders, who had accumulated a fortune in the drug business and gone abroad to spend it on old masters. The canvas is undamaged except for a small three-cornered hole, which is being repaired.

TELLS OF SPEECHES BY ITALIAN LEADERS

Detective Testifies in Foreign Language in Court at Salem

SALEM, Mass., Oct. 24.—For more than an hour today in the trial of Editor Giovanni and Caruso, for the murder of Anna Lopiz during the Lawrence textile strike, testimony was taken in the Italian language.

Charles Bencardo, a young Italian detective, who said he followed the movements of Editor Giovanni and Giovanni in the strike, was on the stand, and attorneys for the defense demanded that he display his knowledge of the tongue of his ancestors.

Bencardo, a native of Boston, testified at the morning session to a speech he heard Giovanni make to the strikers on the day of the fatal shot. Giovanni, speaking in Italian, the witness said, told the strikers to shoot like wild animals at night for the blood of the "scab." He also translated a circular issued by the defendants urging the strikers to smash the heads of those who remained at work.

Under cross-examination, the witness was asked to repeat in Italian all he had related in English and was also put through an Italian language test by Attorney J. Scott Peters. He talked for nearly an hour in Italian, with experts for the defense taking down his words.

Just before adjournment, the first witness from the Italian, which was on guard at Lawrence, was called. He was Captain Thomas Cody of Lynn. He told of the riot on the evening of January 29, when the Lopiz girl was shot and said that not a man in his company fired a revolver or a rifle that day.

SECOND MATE BLAMED FOR SCHOONER WRECK

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 24.—Ernest Lorenzen second mate of the lumber schooner "J. J. Lorego," which was wrecked last Saturday at Point Arguello, was charged today with the responsibility of the disaster by Captain Guthrie and John W. S. inspectors of boats and boilers, who conducted the investigation in the case. As a punishment for changing the course of the vessel without orders from the master, his license was suspended for eight months.

Captain Svendsen was exonerated from blame. The "J. J. Lorego" is a total loss, having broken in two while pounding on the rocks in the surf.

O. L. Ingraham of 541 I street reported to the police last night that his room had been entered and his trunk broken open. The thief secured a revolver.

Boils, Rashes, Pimples, Etc.

When the blood becomes infected with any unhealthy humor the effect is shown by boils, pimples, and rashes or eruptions on the skin. Humors get into the blood usually because of an inactive condition of the eliminative members. Remove these humors and no skin trouble can exist, because its very source is then destroyed. Boils, rashes, pimples, etc. can never be cured through the application of external medicines, the most to be obtained from such measures is temporary relief. S.S.S. CURES all skin affections because it purifies the blood. It goes down into the circulation and cleanses it of every particle of unhealthy matter. Then the blood supplies nourishment to the cuticle instead of irritating it with a fiery humor. If you have any skin trouble you could not do better than purify your blood with S. S. S. It does not "patch up," it cures. Book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice free to all write and request same.

CHAMP CLARK LEADER OUT FOR ROOSEVELT

Former State Labor Commissioner of Minnesota
Is Progressive

The campaign towards the Progressive party is fairly under way. W. H. Williams of Minneapolis, who managed the campaign of Speaker Clark in Minnesota before the Baltimore convention, has come out openly for Colonel Roosevelt and the Progressive platform, and has volunteered to take the stump for the Progressive ticket.

"Colonel Roosevelt is a better representative of the things for which Democracy is supposed to stand than Woodrow Wilson," announced Williams. "I feel the Clark men in Minnesota will vote for Roosevelt. If he does not work for him openly, the fact that the Progressive platform offers relief for the man who falls will bring to the Progressive ticket thousands of voters in Minnesota."

Williams was state labor commissioner under the late Governor John A. Johnson. He conducted that office endeavoring to bring the labor element in the state, who threw most of their votes to Champ Clark in the state primaries.

MCKITTRICK OIL MEN WILL ATTEND MEETING

Many Will Be at Bakersfield
Saturday; Brief Development News

MCKITTRICK, Oct. 25.—Representatives of a number of oil companies operating in the McKittrick field, on the North McKittrick front, and in the North Midway and Belridge districts, will attend the meeting of operators in those districts called by the Kern County Oil Association, to be held in Bakersfield tomorrow afternoon at the hotel given by the Standard Oil Company that after the expiration of existing contracts, averaging about January 1, 1913, no oil under 18 gravity will be received.

In view of the fact that the action of the Standard Oil company, according to a circular letter issued by the Kern County Oil Association to the oil operators, affects the interests of the operators to the extent of 30,000 barrels daily, the meeting is recognized as being most important, and it is thought that fully fifty companies will be represented at the meeting. The problem is a most important one to the oil men, both producers and buyers, and it is expected that representatives of the Standard, Union and Associated Oil companies will be in attendance to ascertain the attitude of the operators in the matter.

The McKittrick Western Oil and Land Company, which operates on the North McKittrick front and in the North Midway district, has reached a depth of 800 feet in well No. 2 on the Straight lease, in the latter field. Ten-inch casing is being put down and the drill is in oil sand with good prospects.

On the Globe Exploration lease in the North Midway district, which is now controlled by the General Petroleum Company, preparations are being made to install a rotary on at well No. 2.

The Panama-Belridge Oil Company, whose lease is in the Belridge field, has received timber for the construction of a rig for well No. 2.

The Oil Company, on its lease in the McKittrick field, has added a 70 horse-power boiler to its plant.

The Recruit Oil Company is having assessment work done on its lease, a number of men having been sent out from McKittrick this week for that purpose.

OPERATORS IN MIDWAY MEET WATER TROUBLE

Seepage of Water Into Producing Wells Is Now Almost Obliterated

TAFT, Oct. 25.—The efforts of the Kern County Mutual Water Protective Association, coupled with the cooperation of nearly every oil operator in the field, not on the membership rule, is bringing about a gradual shutting off of water in the many wells which have long had a seepage problem.

Geologist Latham is on the lookout for new water runoffs, with plans being laid to overcome any flow which breaks into wells at whatever depth.

Water Commissioner Latham is keeping a close watch on the ground where any seepage is found, and he is advising as to what is necessary. Everywhere the oil men are endeavoring to do their duty in keeping down the water which a year ago was keeping the wells on the flats from being the valuable producers at first reported.

Scott has done the greater part of the cementing in the Midway and Sunset fields during the past year, cementing more than three score wells in the past few months.

His well record shows that the effort to overcome water is not confined to any one part of the fields, but is spread from Maricopa to McKittrick.

MARICOPA, Oct. 24.—George Mel-

A trial lasting one hour through boulders and shale, the flashlight bit drilled six inches while the tool steel disc in the same length of time drilled 18 feet through the same formation.

This happened last August. Harve Hamilton being the head driller.

On the Mayes Oil Company's lease, section 28, 31-23, last June an experiment was made with the manganese disc. In one night 120 feet were drilled in gypsum.

Last September on the La Belle lease, in an experiment, 327 feet in 10 hours and 10 minutes of actual drilling was made with the manganese disc. This depth soft formation was struck and a flashlight bit put in. The flashlight ran through this formation, striking gravel and lasted only 30 minutes. The manganese disc was used again and made 9 feet in 1 hour and 40 minutes through boulders. As the disc and

K. T. & O. GUSHER IS NOW FLOWING 15,000

Drops Down Nearly Third Less; Gravity Also Is Down to About 20

TAFT, Oct. 25.—The Kern Trading and Oil Company's big gusher on section 1, 25-22 dropped down in its flow yesterday, from 15,000 barrels to 11,000 barrels, which is giving the heavy shifts of pump boosters an opportunity to catch up with the big production. The pumps installed are now able to cope with the flow, which has not been anything remarkable in the way of pump work.

Much sand has been thrown up in the flow of oil, it being around the derrick until the engine room is now nearly submerged. Because of this center plugging the pump around the well is of no use the oil flowing out over the flat.

Two crews of teamsters and bag fillers were installed yesterday making dikes around the well at about 300 feet away that the flow might be turned back into the channel of the ravine which leads to the big temporary pumps where five pumps are now working.

The Los Angeles Tank Mfg. Company is working two shifts erecting guage tanks immediately adjoining the derrick. Electric lights have been strung all around the well, that the night men may be able to work without any handicaps of darkness.

The gravity of the oil is slowly dropping, it originally being 24.5, but is now down to 20.

Those going along the Coles Levee Boulevard to or from Bakersfield are compelled to detour over the hill instead of going through the cut because of the well which has sent its flow down over the road in several places making it impossible.

DEVELOPMENT NEWS OF MIDWAY FIELD

TAFT, Oct. 25.—Superintendent L. P. Guberson of the Indian and Colonial Development Company, is planning to spud in well No. 22 in a few days. It is on section 22, 32-23. There are sixteen producing wells on the property.

The Standard Oil Company is ready to land its 10-inch casing in the No. 4 well on section 36, 81-23. The well is down about 2,000 feet.

That the flow from the No. 7 well on section 12, 22-23, which came in a gusher last May, has been steadily gauged, the Standard Oil Company has contracted with the Gundlach Tank Company for the erection of a 1,250-barrel guage tank adjoining the well at once. Temporarily the oil is being pumped direct from the well to guage tanks at the Division B pumping station. This will be discontinued as soon as the proper guage tanks are erected at the well. The flow is reported as continuing at about 5,000 barrels daily through 14-inch pipe.

The Union Oil Company is planning to redrill the No. 3 well on its Regal lease on section 14, 32-23. The casing was shut off yesterday at a depth of 2,800 feet by Allison and Berry that the drill might be put down. The casing below that point will now be side-tracked.

Another experiment relative to what dynamite may do to better field conditions is being tried out on the No. 1 well of the Rex Midway Oil Company. The well is down 3,500 feet. It having passed through an excellent oil sand and later a water strata. Plans are now being made to dynamite at a depth of 3,200 feet, which is above the water sand. A pocket will then be made for cementing the lower water after which the well is to be perforated at the oil sand. The dynamiting is to be done by Allison and Berry of Taft. The well has been on the list for some time, but indications now are that the water will be overcome and an excellent producer brought in. It is on section 8, 81-23.

All People He Met Are Going to Cast Their Votes

Silent Vote Makes Real
Prediction, Impossible,
He Asserts

Charles R. Barnard, attorney of this city, has just returned from a tour of the Middle West and is very optimistic about conditions there.

Almost every person he met, informed him that Roosevelt would get his vote, but the strange thing about the whole affair, said Barnard, was the fact that while every person indicated that he was going to vote for Roosevelt, all said they believed Wilson would be elected.

He believes that if this condition continues until election that the Roosevelt vote will exceed all expectations.

"There is no doubt," said Barnard, "but that Roosevelt will receive a tremendous vote in the Middle West."

"A peculiar feature of the situation, however, is the fact that this year, as never before, the silent vote is so large that no one can correctly forecast the outcome, with any degree of assurance."

"Men in close touch with the political situation in past years, say they are unable to learn how thousands are going to vote. Some believe that this indicates a Roosevelt landslide, while others express doubt as to how they will line up on election day."

Barnard went East on a visit to his old home in Iowa, but spent some time in Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri and part of Illinois. Although his visit was for the purpose of renewing old acquaintances, he made it a point to look into political conditions as much as possible and ascertain, if possible, the feeling in the Middle West.

"I have returned feeling very optimistic about the situation," he said.

Therefore according to the complaint it appears the formality was literally complied with of the contractor going on the lots armed with warrant assessment, roll, disbursement and certificate of the street superintendent, and "while upon said lots and on behalf of said E. W. Radman in a loud and audible voice demanded payment of the sum of $18.92, the amount so assessed against each of the said lots aforesaid."

at Temperance

Big Republican rallies will be held at Kingsburg and Temperance Colony tonight.

W. E. Chandler, Republican nominee for the Assembly from the 50th district, and J. M. Oliver, of San Francisco, will be the speakers at Kingsburg. Oliver created a very good impression in Fowler last night and it is probable that there will be a very large attendance to hear him tonight.

L. B. Cary, Republican nominee for the Assembly from the 52nd district, will be the principal speaker at the Temperance Colony meeting tonight.

The meeting will be held in Temperance Colony hall.

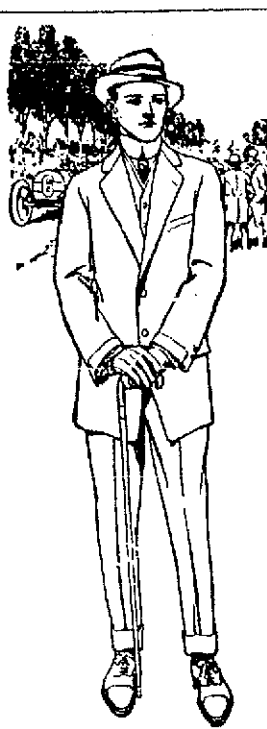

The 52nd district is largely country territory and Cary is conducting an active campaign in this territory and is very much pleased with the outlook thus far.

The disc bit recorder about one-third was worn, the disc bit was taken out and the flashlight put in again. The flashlight made 20 feet in 50 minutes and then had to be dressed after striking hard formation.

The formation during the drilling was as follows: Sand and gravel, 274 feet; gypsum, 30 feet; soft clay, 20 feet and boulders, 22 feet.

The manganese disc are being made at Maricopa.

RAIN NOT LIKELY TO DAMAGE MUCH

Majority of Raisins Now in Sweatboxes or in Stacks

Rain at this time will probably do no damage whatever to raisins, as the bulk of the crop is now harvested and under cover. In some vineyards, fruit is still on the ground but these vineyards are few and far between. There are a number of vineyards, however, where the raisins are stacked and a driving rain might do some damage to these goods but little fear is being entertained by any growers that any great amount of damage will result.

Deliveries are rushing into the packing houses, but all the packers are making close examinations as to quality. The number of rejections this year exceeds anything of the kind for several years, and where some firms were maintaining at first that the crop was as good as ever, all are freely admitting that it is not what was expected.

The crop is also weighing generally light, due to the presence of so many small raisins.

Three crown raisins are proving very valuable at the present time, to fill fancy seed boxes and in some instances it is reported that packers have been willing to pay premiums above the market price to get this class of raisins. The premium is offered for the whole crop, if it shows a normal quantity of three crown goods. Thus far, the majority of the crops have been showing much less than a normal quantity of three crown goods and a great excess of two crown raisins.

A renewal of activity in raisin circles is expected within the next two or three weeks, and even now, some packers have been out trying hard to purchase on a 2 cent basis.

Notwithstanding the fact that the packers generally have been offering but 2 cents for Muscats, the heavy demand for Thompsons has tended to keep up the price on these goods, and only a few days ago, three cents was paid by one or two local firms.

"THE ROUND-UP" IN MATINEE TODAY AND AGAIN TONIGHT

SCENE FROM "THE ROUND-UP" STUPENDOUS PRODUCTION NOW BEING OFFERED AT BARTON

Maclyn Arbuckle in "The Round-Up," Klaw & Erlanger's stupendous production of Edmund Day's famous drama, will be seen at the Barton again this afternoon at 2:15 and tonight at 8:15. This play with its heart interest and thrills and extraordinary sensationalism in the most realistic battle scene ever presented, has a popular appeal that has resulted in an unbroken succession of crowded audiences wherever seen.

The production is one of the largest that Klaw & Erlanger have ever made and they have omitted no detail in scenery or equipment that could contribute in any way to the completeness of this great atmospheric picture. The company is large and very able, and in addition to the leading players, there is an auxiliary interest in the form of genuine Western cavalrymen, cowboys, Mexican vaqueros, Apache Indians and twenty cow-ponies from Arizona cattle ranges. The locale of the scenes is Southwestern Arizona before the advent of wire fences and during the period when General Crook was chasing Cochise and his Braves into the reservation at Fort Grant. The story, although written about a Western theme, and strongly dramatic, is not that of "Wild and Woolly" character that one almost instinctively associates with the term, Western play. The personalities of the story are, of course, the rough and homely type of the ranges, but the story is one of such supreme heart interest and so true to human nature generally that it perhaps could be translated to other locale and interpreted by different types of character, with fully as great effectiveness as in the setting in which it is now presented. The broad art of the scene painter and the marvels of stagecraft have never produced such scenes as those represented in "The Round-Up."

"In Old Kentucky"

At the Barton next Monday evening the attraction will be "In Old Kentucky." Other plays come and go and are forgotten, but "In Old Kentucky" (now in its 26th season) is a fixture and no theatrical season is quite complete without it. A fine company, a splendid new scenic equipment, and, as usual, the always entertaining pickaninny band will be seen in this entertaining drama. Good judges pronounce "In Old Kentucky" the best example of an American play produced in the last decade. It deals with an interesting phase of life in the blue-grass state, and is replete with action and thrilling episodes, and with many admirable character types. It is a sweet and wholesome and offends no proprieties in no respect whatever. Its fame is as wide as America, and its appeal is unending. Miss Olive Skinner will be seen in the leading role of "Madge Brerly," the brave mountain girl. The cast will remain

LADIES' SEXTETTE AT EMPIRE MATINEE

Miss Jennings, Empire Comedienne

A real treat is the musical offering of Lola Stantonne-Paulisch and her five talented young accompanists in the Ladies String Sextette, the feature of the matinee at the Empire today. Highly accomplished are these young women. Miss Paulisch is herself a graduate of the Boston Conservatory of Music, a title that shows her superior talent. The young university women who are with her are also well trained musicians for Miss Paulisch has selected them carefully. Anyone of them is competent to give an exhibition of alone playing an evergreen instrument of the instrument she plays.

Three violins played by three experts who are able to make them give out their sweetest tones; a piano, a bass viol, and a violoncello complete the half-dozen instruments that make up the string sextette.

There has been much praise for the fine playing of these young women, and the Empire has been well filled each evening by those who love really high class music. Their playing is extraordinarily good; the most critical have nothing but praise for them. A musical act of the high class of the Ladies String Sextette draws good crowds and there has been much favorable comment on the playing of these young women.

It is a splendid bill all the way through this week. The Three Brothers Harding, comic jugglers with their fair portion of applause by their very skillful work with the Indian clubs and saws, but singing. They have come new stunts and their work has that snap and vim that is so essential to really good juggling.

Ella Fant is here. Say her name right fast and you have what she was called when she went to school. Of course no one would call her that now. Ella weighs 200 pounds and is just that much fun. Dressed in a task with her but she manages it. She sings. They are her own songs too. Also she plays the saxophone and she does it with the musical skill of an expert.

Wiggin and Jennings in their own skit "Look at the Lobster" are very good. Many a new joke they have and many a pointed remark. A little out of the ordinary and very enjoyable is the work of these people. Wiggin is the cartoonist who has visited Fresno on several occasions. He has many friends here.

Have you seen Walters' automobile? It is the finest automobile the city ever saw. It is a new model of the latest getting "up-to-date." Walters just folds his automobile up and it becomes a suitcase. Fred has a distinct novelty and the act of it is as assisted by Miss Murray is unique and highly enjoyable.

There will be a matinee today so that all can see this splendid program as the program is to be changed tomorrow. It is one of the best vaudeville shows that has ever been given in Fresno and should be seen by everyone. The matinee this afternoon is at 2 o'clock and popular prices prevail. Adults 20c, children 10c.

MATINEE AT TEAL'S THEATER TODAY

This is matinee day at Teal's Theater and a better and more classy singing show than The Sultan could not have been chosen for the occasion. "The production is full of pretty and tuneful musical numbers and comedy of the clean cut order that appeals to the ladies and children and is of the high producing order."

Emile Kruschko and Rufe Onslow are exceedingly funny in this bill and keep one in convulsions of laughter all the time.

The costuming of the show is very pretty and like the scenery of the original style the big production is kept well in action all the time and have some of the best singing and dancing numbers yet seen on the Teal stage.

SAY ELECTRIC AUTO NOT UP TO CONTRACT

A. L. Kreiss and Wife Make Answer on Suit to Collect Note

A. L. Kreiss and wife filed answer yesterday in the suit of the United Electric Vehicle Company on a note for $500, balance on payment for an electric auto under contract of purchase in May, 1911, with $350 previously paid. They ask for cancellation of the contract and return of the $350 paid. It is pleaded that the auto was represented to be a new auto model of 1911 guaranteed to run sixty miles on one charge of battery for one year, to be noiseless and in perfect condition. Instead, they say, it did not run more than thirty-five miles on one charge, was not new except as to the tires and had in fact, as was learned afterward, been used long as a demonstration car in Oakland. Rather than have the contract repudiated, it is claimed the company took the car twice to remedy shortcomings, with the result as stated that the motor was discovered to be defective, the auto continued to be as noisy as ever and the speed instead of being increased was in consequence of the tinkering further reduced to fifteen miles an hour. The $250 payment was made only on the promise that the auto would be brought up to guarantee. Instead of which the Kreiss allege that the machine of the model and never been considered satisfactory and the company classed them as so much "old junk."

CARS ARRIVING FOR FRUIT SHIPMENTS

It is believed that less than 200 cars remain to be shipped, but it is asserted that there will be no further car shortage this year.

Packing is going on only to a few local packing houses, and the next week or ten days will probably see everything cleaned up, according to the shippers. Good prices are being received in the East, but the coming of frost has brought about a quick closing of the season.

INQUEST IS HELD FOR FRANK BONITO

Coroner Dean yesterday afternoon held an inquest at Laton over the remains of Frank Bonito, the fireman, who died as the result of injuries received when an automobile being driven by A. E. Chartrand is said to have lost control of his machine when the steering gear broke.

Delivery of 110,313 pounds was made and $2,747.47 paid on sale price amounting to $2,309.32. Coincident with the drop in price the company refused to accept further deliveries, and $2,437 pounds were sold elsewhere at the highest market price for two cents, or $1,795.74, at a loss of $494.87.

POLICE TO ENFORCE TWO NEW ORDINANCES

Chief Jones Gives Instructions to Officers and Warning to Public

Chief of Police Jones yesterday gave instructions to the patrolmen to enforce the two new city ordinances which were passed at the last meeting of the city trustees. Chief Jones said that he wanted to warn the public through the press of the ordinances so that no one would be ignorant of the existence of the new laws. The first ordinance provides that all vehicles must be equipped with a bell, gong or horn and that they are to be sounded only when necessary to warn people of danger. This will do away with the clanging which many youngsters of the city have on their wheels and who go racing through the streets blowing them. This ordinance also provides that mufflers on motorcycles must be closed.

The second ordinance says that vehicles must not be allowed to stand in any alley longer than thirty minutes and that the horses must not be hitched. It is also not lawful to leave any vehicle less than fifteen feet from a fire hydrant.

An Electric Motor Saves Time and Money

USE an electric motor for pumping and have your plant installed now while there is plenty of time. An electric motor is the plant to use. It is the most economical to install and it is economical of expense and time and repairs after it is installed.

A constant and steady flow of water as long as you want it removes the worry and much of the work from irrigating. The motor will run for hours with no attention. It is easily started at any time and is almost never out of order. It is so simple that there is nothing that can go wrong. It is the power for the farmer who has no time to waste in making adjustments and repairs.

BOOSTERS BOLT FROM GOOD ROADS MEETING

Supervisor Singleton and Chairman Martin Differ on Question of Bonds

PORTERVILLE, Oct. 25.—Supervisor Singleton, of the Fifth district, which includes Dunes, broke up the Good Roads Association meeting which was held in the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon when he led about twenty of his followers from the meeting, following a personal dispute with J. W. Martin, chairman of the meeting.

L. E. McCabe, the Visalia member of the special committee, appointed to investigate road conditions in various portions of this state, asked that steps be taken at once to form a permanent organization and carry on the necessary campaign of education. McCabe stated that there is considerable popular misapprehension and that the committee of which he is a member has never proposed a bond issue of any stated amount. The sole purpose of his work, he says, has been to put the question of better roads up to the people of this district and let them see how closely connected is material prosperity with better transportation.

In the course of the discussion which followed, Singleton stated that he represented the sentiment of the Fifth district, and that he and his followers will fight any bond issues, no matter what amount. With this statement he left the meeting in the confusion which followed the meeting closed. A further gathering will be called soon and organization completed.

Good prices are anticipated although in view of the quantity of Valencia which remains in the southern market it is not expected that the market will open as strong as last season.

The occupants were awakened by the fire and were able to escape with only their clothes. The house was a two-story building and was completely destroyed. ## LEG OF HUMAN BEING IS FOUND IN REEDLEY

Dog Drags Home Portion of Dead Body Supposedly From Bank of River

REEDLEY, Oct. 25.—Constable F. A. M. Webb has been occupied all day in making an investigation to determine the source from whence a leg from a human being came which was brought to the home of W. D. Wright by a dog yesterday. A visit was made to the cemetery and also to all points along the bank of Kings river, where it might be possible the dog had unearthed a body, but without success. It is the belief of the Constable that the leg is a portion of a corpse that had floated down Kings river from some point above here. Another search will be made tomorrow to find if possible the balance of the body from which the leg is supposed to have been taken by the animal. The leg is that of a child or a small woman, as it is not large enough to be that of a man. As there has been no one missing here, and no mysterious tragedy of any kind, it is not thought the member is that belonging to anyone who ever lived in Reedley. The leg is that portion from the knee down, and is covered with dried flesh, considerably torn and decomposed, indicating that the body from which it had been taken had been dead for some weeks. Deputy Coroner Winnes made a search of the cemetery to see if any of the graves had been disturbed, and all were intact. Coroner Bean, of Fresno, had been notified of the circumstance, and any action looking to the unraveling of the mystery will probably be conducted from his office.

CAMPAIN TO DEPORT ALL IMMORAL WOMEN

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 24.—The Society for the Suppression of Vice, through its secretary John G. Lawler, announced tonight that it would open a campaign in two directions for the deportation of some 5,000 foreign born immoral women said to be in California. If the campaign in this state is successful, it will be extended to Oregon and Washington.

An executive order, Lawler said, will be asked from the President, directing the Department of Commerce and Labor to proceed with such deportations. Advice received from officials of that department state, that pending decision of a case now in the Supreme Court, the department is taking no action. Although the letter addressed, if evidence be produced showing that the women attacked entered the country within three years prior to the passage of the act, federal officers will act. As the statute now stands, such women are subject to deportation regardless of the length of their stay in the country.

A campaign among the parlors of the Native Daughters of the Golden West with the other branch of the campaign, addresses have already been scheduled. It is hoped that in this way sentiment will be aroused which will secure enforcement of the act and a sufficient appropriation will be insured for the work.

On motion the resignation of the former officers were accepted and the Chamber proceeded to choose new officers, as follows: G. J. Bentley, president; A. E. Lowden, vice president; Geo. D. Avery, secretary and treasurer; and five directors who with the president and vice-president constitute the board of directors. Wm. Scott, D. W. Tullock, Tom Maxwell, W. A. Sawyer and H. C. White.

FILES COMPLAINT TO ANNUL INCORPORATION

MERCED, Oct. 25.—If the allegations of a complaint filed by J. W. Gibbons against the board of supervisors are proved in court to be true, and the prayer of Gibbons granted, the incorporation election at Merced Falls last Tuesday will have been of no avail and furthermore the town cannot incorporate at present. Gibbons alleges that the petition asking the supervisors to call a special election was not signed by a sufficient number of properly qualified electors, and that twelve of the sixty-one signers are not, and were not, qualified electors. This, he says, reduces the number of legal signers to less than the required fifty.

Gibbons further alleges that the population of the territory proposed to be incorporated is less than 250, whereas 500 is the number necessary for incorporation. Gibbons asks that the supervisors be restrained from calling a special election until the petition is sustained, and that the incorporation be annulled.

Incorporation carried by the vote of 23 to 8. Gibbons owns property within the territory sought to be incorporated.

DYNAMITE LETTERS ARE INTRODUCED

Papers to Involve Officers of Iron Workers in Series of Crimes

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 24.—Mrs. Grace Caylor Wallis, former stenographer for John J. McNamara, identified at the "dynamite conspiracy" trial today, to many letters received at and sent from the headquarters of the International Association of Bridge and Iron Structural Workers. The letters were between McNamara and various officials of the union who are now on trial.

Mrs. Wallis denied that J. B. McNamara, who blew up the Los Angeles theatre building, was about the headquarters much. She said she had seen him only twice after he was being searched for. The witness also denied that any nitro-glycerin cans or packages of dynamite were kept about the office.

None of the letters are read. District Attorney Miller said probably two days would be devoted to the reading of the letters. It was these letters, the government charges, which contain evidence that all the forty-five defendants showed their knowledge of the conspiracy.

Andrew J. Dilling, an employee of a Cincinnati trunk manufacturer, testified concerning the manufacture of a fibrolit case made for J. J. McNamara and which the government charges was used for carrying nitro-glycerin on passenger trains.

Henry W. Leggett, of Denver, former member of the navy's executive board, is charged with carrying the one from Pittsburgh, Pa., to union headquarters at Indianapolis.

James A. Werks, a Philadelphia detective, told of two explosions on an elevated road construction in Philadelphia on the night of April 13, 1908.

W. E. Carver of Trenton, N. J., told of the destruction of a drag bridge under construction at Palham, N. J., in 1908. The ship, he said, had been dropped into Past Chester bay, causing a loss of $10,000.

The National Progressive committee received 487 contributions of $1 each; 16 of 25 cents each; 12 of 50 cents each and a large number of $20 and $50.

The total contributions of $304,244 of the national committee, were $100,939.

FINISH STOCK WILL BE FEATURE OF CARNIVAL

SELMA, Oct. 25.—That there will not be an idle moment during the five days of Selma's first Carnival is an assured fact, and there is sure to be something happening every minute from the very start. Tuesday, November 5th, when the big live stock parade will take place. The committee reports that entries for this showing of Selma's finest stock are coming in in good numbers, and predict that the judges will have some unusually fine stock to judge during the afternoon.

The committee charge of the live stock parade to be held on the street in the evening has practically completed all details for their evening's entertainment, and will have a large space of the paved street swept and well cleaned for the evening. A continuous loud concert has been arranged, and arrangements are being made to have a direct wire and special telegraph operator to receive the election returns, so that the latest election returns may be flashed on a bulletin board located in the center of the activities of the evening.

The Woodmen of the World, who always hold open house on election night, will observe their annual custom this year, and will have an open meeting in their hall, so that if the evening should be too cool, or the weather inclement, the election returns will be received in the hall, and the spacious hall will be at the disposal of the merry makers and those interested in the political results.

Interest in the Carnival Queen contest continues unabated. Miss Shirley Sweney held her first place again today, but Miss Elza Gilchrist who has been running second, made one of the best gains that she has made during any day. Miss Ruth Hahn also received a large block of votes, that indicated that she has many very loyal friends who intend to jump her from third place to the one at the head of the list. Miss Ruth Rushing today jumped into the fourth position, with a heavy vote that indicates that she will be seriously considered in the final count. With only eight more days left, the interest is growing more keen every day, and heavier votes are predicted for each ensuing day of the contest.

If the new building been ready for occupancy at the opening of the term the attendance would have been larger.

MOTHER OF LARGE FAMILY

Tells How She Keeps Her Health—Happiness For Those Who Take Her Advice.

Scottville, Mich.—"I want to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. I live on a farm and have worked very hard. I am forty-five years old, and am the mother of thirteen children. Many people think it strange that I am not broken down with hard work and the care of my family, but I tell them of my good friend, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and that there will be no backache and bearing-down pains for them if they will take it as I have. I am scarcely ever without it in the house."

"I will say also that I think there is no better medicine to be found for young girls. My eldest daughter has taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for painful periods and irregularity, and it has helped her."

"I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I tell every one I meet that I owe my health and happiness to your wonderful medicine."

—Mrs. J. G. JOHNSON, Scottville, Mich., R.F.D. 8.

Guest Towel Design in Embroidery

(END)

(END)

The making of pretty towels the past year has amounted to a craze, so great has been the demand of these very appropriate pieces of household linen in making presents for "linen-showers" and the like. Most persons prefer white, since a towel must be subjected to severe laundry work, but this is not necessary since wash-colors can be found that will withstand some very severe washings. The rose design means nothing but a color scheme. It suggests that delicate shade of pink found so often in a small rambling rose. Then one could finish the leaves in green, and match the ribbons with the rose. Work ribbons slantingly. They look much neater. Pad the roses slightly, and do not forget to add a very tiny bit of yellow to each rose center, since all roses boast this "golden heart." Too, this suggests several towels of the same design each in a different color. And it offers one of the loveliest schemes to carry out in the white linen dresser set or pillow end. In fact, it is a scheme for decorating a girl's room in many ways.

TO TRANSFER THIS DESIGN.

Put a cake of soap (laundry will do) in a pint of hot water, stir vigorously and remove the soap. Saturate this Design with the soap and water mixture, then remove the excess moisture by partially drying the saturated Design or by applying a sheet of blotting paper. Place the material or fabric to which the design is to be transferred on a hard, flat surface and lay the Design, face down, upon the material. Cover with a dry sheet of thick paper or two folds of newspaper, and with the bowl of a tablespoon rub, pressing hard, until the Design is entirely transferred, being careful to rub from, rather than toward you. When rubbing, you can see if enough pressure is being applied by lifting a corner of the Design to note how well it's taking. Do not wet the material nor rub the face of the Design with damp fingers. To remove the Design lines after the article is completed, wash in warm water, with soap. The entire process is very simple and with a little care you can easily make perfect transfers to any kind of goods.

ODDS AND ENDS

Our Hint Department For Busy Housewives

T O clean venetian blinds wash each lath separately with water, to which a little ammonia is added. Sponge with clean water and dry with a soft cloth.

S WEET oil removes finger marks from varnished furniture, and kerosene from oiled furniture.

A FERN ball hung in a window will often break an awkward space. It is decorative, too, and will add a touch of living green to a room that will be agreeable.

P LUSH goods and all articles dyed with aniline colors, which have faded from exposure to the light, will look as bright as new after sponging with chloroform.

T RY using sausage fat to shorten gingerbread. When gingerbread is done put on a thin layer of frosting and you will be surprised how much more delicious it will be.

W ASH the refrigerator every day with a solution of soda and water, and wipe dry. The part that holds the ice should be washed once a week and the drain pipe kept free from obstruction.

N EVER leave the flatirons standing on the stove after you have finished ironing. After they have been left to heat and cool time and again they lose their "temper" and will not hold heat. If the starch has stuck to them scrape, then rub over with coal oil or beeswax and set on end on a shelf until needed. If they are not to be used for a long time grease all over and wrap in brown paper.

H AED soap is useful when cleaning house, and can be made from the accumulation of fats saved during the winter. Take twelve gallons of soft water, add six pounds of soda and three pounds of unsalted lime; let it come to a boil and put it into jars. Let it stand one day, put it into the kettle without the sediments and add twelve pounds of grease. It must be boiled five hours. Let it stand for a day and slice into cakes of the desired size. Less can be made in proportion.

S CALDS or burns can be cured by applying oatmeal and cold water. The cooling qualities of the meal help to draw out the fire from the burn, while its soothing properties heal it.

A SIMPLE and excellent way to remove dirty marks from a raincoat is to cut a raw potato in slices and rub it well on the marks. It will also remove mud stains from dress skirts, children's coats and gentlemen's trousers.

T O fasten pictures on the wall so that the wind cannot tear them loose take a narrow ribbon and brass tacks and, beginning at one corner, fasten the picture, then another tack, and so on clear around the picture. Use ribbon to harmonize with the color in your picture and the effect will be pretty.

I F your last year's Panama straw hat is yellow and soiled wash it in a warm castle soap suds bath to which a few drops of ammonia have been added. Rinse well in tepid water, using a small nail brush, and then rub with a soft clean rag until the hat is thoroughly dry.

T O get a polish on mahogany furniture clean it constantly with linseed oil and turpentine, using nice clean cloths to polish it. Apply very little flannel. If the furniture will not take the polish clean it with soapy water and let it dry before polishing.

A LNET or ribbon bows may be given new life without removing them from the hat by using a curling iron. It should be made quite hot, then covered loosely with a wet cloth and inserted in the loops, opening from as wide as loops demand and holding them there until day, put it into the kettle without the sediments and add twelve pounds

WHAT THE MEN SAY

BY LUCILLE DAUDET.

TIME and again one hears the saying, "women dress to please the men," but like most old aphorisms this is not true, if woman herself can be believed.

"Why, if women wore the things the masculine sex chose for them, think what freaks they would be," laughed Mrs. Pose. "They would be vague creatures in stiff collars, pink ribbons around their necks, or in trailing gowns. Take the men off in a room by themselves and ask them to describe the women's costumes at a dinner party. The goit enthusiast will stretch his bald head and say, 'Why, Miss Smith—she—or—why, I am sure she had on a locket in the shape of a 'tee.' The poet will declare Miss Featherweight wore an ethereal gown, gauzy, sweeping, and her hair was parted in the middle. The minister will say, 'Why, Miss Marrowbone was in something simple—nothing loud, you know.' And Sporting Harry will confess, 'Well, by gum, Miss Jones looked pretty, but that's all I know.'"

"One man declared that he knew women's dress in three stages only. First he remembered every girl as in blue gingham pinafores and with 'pig-tail' braids down her back, as Miss he had visions of her in white with a pink sash, and as a grand mother who appeared in breakfast and in soft gray gowns. The only thing that another man could remember about his dead sweetheart was that she wore two circular curls pinned daily against her temples and a lover pictured his Mollie with a red rose nestled in her dark hair."

"I am sure I should be known as the 'lady in Gray,'" smiled Mrs. Old. "If I consulted Mr. Old every time I bought a dress. For years, whenever I asked him, 'What color do you wish my new costume to be?' he has never failed to answer, 'gray,' just because my wedding gown happened to be gray forty years ago." "And my John," exclaimed Mrs. Whiskle, "what that man would have me wear—'" Here Mrs. Whiskle threw up both hands. "When we were first married I always wished my husband's approval of everything I purchased. One evening I saw a hat marked down. I knew it would be gone if I waited until the next day. John was at a council meeting, and I thought, 'What am I to do?' all the way to the city hall. I sent the janitor to tell John that his wife was waiting outside. He hurried out breathlessly, thinking that the house had burned down, the maid had eloped, the baby had fallen into the cistern, or something, when I said, 'O, John, there is such a pretty hat in the window, may I buy it?' Then he got red in the face and kept saying, 'Why—what—the devil—! Eliza-beth, go buy it.' But are you sure you will like me in the hat, John? It is black with long pink plumes. 'It'll be all right. Go on now, the fellows are waiting for me,' I said, but I'm afraid it will be gone. It's grass green straw with cock's feathers in a bunch on the side, do you think you'll like it?' 'Yes, yes; but I must go now,' he answered. 'Are you sure? It's a Manila straw with a baby blue bow in the back.' 'It'll be all right,' he declared.

"Thus I got his approval of three hats, as I myself had not fully decided upon which I wanted. If I had selected a Holland cap it would have been all the same to him. I bought the Manila straw with the baby blue bow in the back and afterwards John never knew when I had a hat on even."

"My husband is athletic, he likes nothing better than long tramps in the woods, and of course, his mind runs on short walking skirts, shirt waists, and four-in-hand ties for women," chuckled Mrs. Muffer. "But he can't force me into wearing the ugly things, now," she said, tucking a ruffled handkerchief into the sleeve of her dainty lace house.

"Henry's taste is just the opposite," declared Mrs. Brown. "Somehow he can't get away from trailing skirts and violets in the corsage. He must have read a book with a heroine in clinging chiffons. I tell him 'With three children, how long would such a gown last me?' and I keep on buying sailor collars and Windsor ties."

NEW CURTAINS

HAVE you seen the new curtains, made of draperies of peacock shells? They are very pretty, and very interesting, as they come all the way from the coast of the Gulf of Mexico.

The conquina is a tiny clamlike creature, inhabiting a bit of a shell, the color of which may be rose, blue, purple, yellow—almost any shade you can think of. Boiling water is poured on the live animals, and the shells open like the wings of a butterfly. The it explained that the little animals are cast up by the waves on the seashore, and gathered as they come in.

After washing them off and keeping the contents of the shells for soup, the shells themselves are cleaned thoroughly, first in hot and then in cold water, and then threaded in pairs. A yellow linen thread is used as long, when doubled, as the curtain is to be. Then a small hole is made in the hinge edge of each pair, and the eye of the needle threaded is described. The point of the needle is pushed through the hole on one side, so that the thread comes from the underside. It is then passed downward through the hole on the other shell. Finally, the needle is passed up between the shells. This stitch is repeated, threading the pairs one or two inches apart.

Twenty-eight strings make half a curtain. When both sides are done, the strings are fastened to a flat, narrow strip of wood, which is nailed to the strip at the top of the window. Of course, for a door the curtains will have to be wider, perhaps twice as wide.

MATTING

THERE are many uses for matting, and it is splendid to further the porch scheme.

In the first place, the floor can be covered with a matting rug. This may take one, two or three widths, sewn together with heavy cotton thread or raffia soaked in tepid water until it is as pliable as taffeta. Bind the raw edges with goods and prevent it fraying. It can be stitched by hand in a large backhand stitch, which will hold it firmly.

I F the cuticle about your nails seems tough and there is a tendency to "hang nails" rub in a little vasoline or cold cream every night before retiring. Soon you will see a marked improvement in the condition of the nails.

T HE eyebrows are apt to grow shaggy or sparse with increasing years, but their bow shape might have been preserved indefinitely had their owner been careful to brush them daily with a soft toothbrush kept for the purpose.

I T is well to have one large, soft pair of shoes, which can be worn for a short time in spring when the feet are unusually sensitive. Both calfskin and patent leather can not be worn by women whose feet trouble them.

W HEN the first symptoms of a headache appear take one teaspoonful of clear lemon juice fifteen minutes before each meal and at bedtime, and continue till symptoms are past. For biliousness, plain lemon juice and water is very good. It allays fever and promotes sleep and appetite.

F EW realize the efficiency of apples in throat disorders and indigestion. Apples contain more phosphoric acid than any other fruit, and everybody ought to know that the best thing to do to promote the action of the liver and thereby secure sound sleep is to eat an apple before going to bed. Apple puddings of all kinds, apple sauce or salad of apple and celery for lunch, baked with cream for breakfast and all ways the apple is the old standard for health sake, one cannot afford to do without.

T O improve the texture of the skin nothing is better than the use of a flesh brush morning and night, lathering it well with any good soap, and then scrubbing the arms, not as to hurt the flesh, but to stimulate circulation. This also prevents the accumulation of any scales, falling well over the hands, dried skin, and will have a noticeable effect in softening the red place over the elbow, where the skin is inclined to be dry and hard. This latter place will bear a more severe scrubbing than the rest of the arm. When there is pronounced coarseness over the elbow this should be bound at night in sweet almond oil. To apply such treatment a lump of absorbent cotton must be soaked in oil, put over the bone and then held in place by a bandage of cheesecloth or old muslin. It may be necessary to have a strip of oiled silk to prevent greasing the bed covering. This is one of the quickest and most effectual ways of improving the elbows.

FOR THE ELDERLY

T HE powers that rule in Fashion-land have lately considered the middle-aged woman.

This season the younger generation will take a lesson from their elder friends in the art of looking graceful in draped frocks, jacket bodices, mantles and other styles which they have never seen before.

Nothing is more lovely than a woman whose hair is tinged with gray or "crowned with snow" if she is becomingly groomed.

This season's fashions are made for her age. "A woman is as old as she looks" was never so great a truth as it is today.

Many Hints on How to Make It Very Attractive and Beautiful.

BY LUCILE DAUDET.

Why not do the thing properly while you are at it? I know of one house where each room is thoroughly rehabilitated. New and different curtains appear at windows and doors and bookcases; fresh coverings, not shrouds, incase the chairs; even the bedclothes are fresh and of a lighter sort than those used in the winter.

A word as to these bedspreads. Sometimes they are of coarse scrim, with crocheted insertions in heavy carpet warp; or the scrim is alternately adorned with drawn work in block pattern. Sometimes the spreads are of alternating strips of crocheted and linen, the linen strips embroidered in eyelet or bedspread work. Hebebo and Venetian ladder work are, by the way, to be the modish forms which embroidery will take this season.

One lovely spread is of battenberg net, over which a pattern of crocheted is applied. The edges of these crocheted appliques are couched or are covered with an outline of chain-stitch done in coarse mercerized embroidery cotton. In this way the cut figures need not be turned in at the edges. A small design sprinkled all over the net may be used, or a large center, medallion and corner figures, as desired.

The net and crocheted idea may be applied to curtains also and to the bureau scarf, cushions and other accessories of the same sort. It is cheap enough and very pretty. Think how charming a room would look finished off in this way for the summer, and perhaps with a new wall paper with real crocheted appliques pasted on as dado and border!

You will want new pillows, too, for the window seat, for the porch easy chair and for the hammock. Make them plain; summer pillows are made to use. And make them washable; summer pillows soon get dirty. If you finish with a plain seam edge, you will avoid the various discomforts attending the ruffs and the cord. About the prettiest pillows you can get are those denim or embroidered in outline, or both.

Linen crash also makes good covers for library and porch tables; but if the table be a highly polished one, remember that crash scratches, and provide an interlining of cotton flannel. There is no reason why the dining room should not be done over for the summer in the same way, with linen-colored crash covers for the sideboard and the serving table and for the dining table itself when not in use. If you employ a bare, polished table, you will find that it makes also very satisfactory centerpieces and dish stands. Finish the edges with buttonhole scallops, or, if you wish something more elaborate and the piece is embroidered, use coarse linen-colored cluny lace. You can get the effect by dipping white lace in strong coffee.

The embroiders on these dining room pieces should be done in outline stitch in some conventional design, though even coarse eyelet is possible.

Look, in short, to the simpler materials; they will give the house a fresh open-air appearance that is pleasant after the stuffy draperies of winter, and they are easy to wash and take care of.

FROM FASHIONDOM

BY MRS. KINGSLEY.

The sailor collar, which is very deep at the back and hardly exists at all in front, will be shown in our summer gowns.

Fichus will triumph in evening gowns. They are excellent when of Valenciennes lace and draped over princess gowns.

Beads are used to give striped effects on mousseline de soie. Black and white porcelain beads are placed in two lines on this popular fabric. Usually the vertical arrangement is seen. Buckles and ornaments of beads finish the decorative features of these simple gowns.

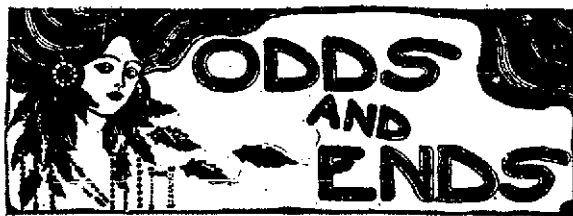

Don't neglect the ribbon trimmed hat! You may edge the silk with straw or contrasting satin and velvet. Lace also is used, but the ribbon bow on all sizes of hats is the thing.

Many hats are lined with a colored straw. Bright blue is faced with cerise, taupe with emerald green.

Small bonnets are gaining in favor. The use of velvet fruit is quite noticeable. Cheries, apricots, plums are most generally seen on the little toques. A stunning model shown by Carlier was of lignum, faced with black velvet. At one side a yellow velvet apricot in a circle of leaves was the only trimming.

Blouses are of allover lace, veiled completely or in part with chiffon. A deep cream-colored lace blouse was veiled on the lower part of the bodice with white chiffon. This showed the yoke and sleeves in their lace glory. A band of copper-colored beads was used as the collar line.

Mousseline de soie blouses with dull silver or gold embroidery are being worn with afternoon suits on cool days.

Worth Knowing.

A greasy collar always makes a coat look horribly shabby. Clean it with a piece of flannel dipped in ammonia.

To mend the place a piece of stiff brown paper across the hole, by means of cold water paste. Pour boiling water into the pan and allow to stand awhile. The pan can be washed in hot or cold water.

An appetizing breakfast or luncheon dish is made by boiling liver, chopping it very fine and mixing it with rice. The resultant hash may or may not be flavored with a little onion, according to taste.

To clean tarnished steel shoe buckles try rubbing them with emery powder. Cut steel may be brightened by shaking it in a bag of emery powder and rubbing it between the hands until the rust disappears. Then polish it with a soft chamamois skin or dry cloth.

Since the left-overs of any sort of meat, season highly, put a tablespoonful on a four-inch square of pastry rolled thin, fold, making a three-cornered turnover and fry in deep fat and you have a dish fit to eat before the king, according to one household authority.

To remedy a scratched mahogany surface take the kernel of a Brazil nut, separate through the center, and rub the oil thoroughly into the scratched or marked place. The white mark will disappear entirely, then your favorite furniture polish may be applied to the restored surface.

Make Own Water Filter.

A home-made filter can be made in this way: Take a large flower pot, insert in the hole in the bottom a sponge, fill the pot with alternate layers of sand, charcoal, and small pebbles. The flower pot thus filled may then be placed on jar or other convenient vessel into which the water can be received as it filters through.

Spots on Calamine Wall.

Take a crabs, such as children use, as nearly color of calamine as possible, and rub on bare spot. This will improve matters much, if you have neglected to ask decorators to leave a small amount of each color when the spring cleaning was done.

To Clean Mica.

The mica in stoves can be made like new by washing with vinegar, slightly diluted. If the black does not come off immediately allow the

SIMPLIFY YOUR WORK

One woman sat down in her living room not long ago to figure this out. Her eyes rested on the walls, literally covered with pictures, banners and mottoes. They were all pleasant to look upon and helped in their memories; the sideboard was filled with cut glass and silver which needed frequent cleaning to keep it sparkling and pretty; the plate rack in the dining room was filled with plates and other plates were suspended from wire hangers; the table held numerous books. All these things needed care. So she started about the house and left only a few things. Just enough to keep the rooms from looking bare. She put away most of the china, cut glass and bric-a-brac. Then she drew a sigh of relief that she would be saved so much work. Her task of simplifying was only just begun. The majority of women add to their duties by unnecessary work until the duties which should be pleasure become burdens.

FOR GRAY HAIR

BY DELIA HOGSDEN.

"My hair is growing very gray," writes a dear mother of several children, some of them "grown."

It was once a beautiful brown, she goes on to say, and incloses a lock to show how "streaked and ugly it is now." What dye or bleach should she use? She is only 45. She does not want to look too old.

I took the little ring, with its touch of silver, pinned against the gentle letter, and lo! it cried out to me:

"Look, I am beautiful still; tell this foolish woman not to hurt me with bleaches and dyes."

What a pretty ring it was, and how sentimental it made me feel! Fine hair, with a rich burnish or soft brown still, yet with the silver threads making it all the more charming. That elusive thing in me called conscience, and which may lie at the core of even the most hardened beauty doctor, awoke. I saw where my duty lay—I must preach a pleasant sermon.

As a general rule I stand ready to give such formulas. But when it comes to the mother of grown children, I will tell her first of all the injurious effect of chemicals on the hair, hint to her of their dubious taste for a lady of her dignified position.

A mother of sons and daughters may be as young as many a maiden—Cleopatra, who successfully stands the test of dyed hair, may even look more youthful. But dyed mother-hair and tall sons and daughters are not usual combinations, and, with all the rest, the hair of 45 being less vigorous than that of younger persons, there is danger of losing it entirely. In most of the hair dyes and bleaches the principal chemicals employed are nitrate of silver and lead, and these in the long run are as injurious to the texture and life of the hair as a flaming torch. They also stain the skin and are likely to cause colic and spasms of the limbs, all of which is the more serious to the middle-aged than to the young and strong.

The hair is still more seriously affected by the bleach than it is by any dye used; and that popular agent, peroxide of hydrogen, will, if persisted in, utterly ruin it, as many a foolish woman has found out. A little peroxide put in the rinsing water with an occasional shampoo is all very well, but the peroxide habit is like the morphine fiend, she must go on till destruction comes to her.

However, there are simple ways and means at least of restoring it, or somewhat, so let this mother of the once beautiful hair not despair. If she is bent upon hiding the, to her, detested threads of silver.

As nervous exhaustion is indicated by the rapid graying of hair in a youthful person—what is 45 but actually young nowadays?—internal medicaments are sometimes necessary. Nux vomica and phosphorus, combined with arsenic or iron, are usually given for this. But arsenic is a dangerous drug and it should only be taken with a physician's permission, as all conditions may not call for it. So be very certain to show the family physician this tonic formula and then abide by his decision: Fowler's solution, arsenic, one dram; muric acid tincture of citric acid, two ounces; compound tincture of cardamom, one ounce five drams.

If the doctor says yes, mix them together and take a teaspoonful three times a day.

THE "TOAD-STOOL" PARASOL

THE MENDING BASKET

The mending basket is sometimes a terrible thing. Many a busy mother never finds the bottom.

But there is a way to keep it a respectable size, at least.

In the laundry, or wherever the ironing is done, reserve the corner of some shelf for a small pincushion supplied with two or three needles of different sizes, a thimble, a pair of small scissors, two or three spools of cotton and a little box of buttons.

As the clothes are picked out of the basket to iron and you find a rent here, a rip there and a button off somewhere else, stop and fix it.

It takes but a minute, and the task of mending is so distributed that the mending basket is no longer the source of so many weary sighs.

A LINEN SHOWER

The "How, Where, and What" of This Gift Season for Brides.

BY EDNA EGAN.

As to the advisability of showers, there are many and various opinions. There are those who object to them as an extra and unnecessary gift tax. There are those who think that, nine times out of ten, it is only an invitation to the bride-to-be to give a party and receive, as some sort of toll, a lot of things she doesn't want and will never have the slightest use for.

In general, however, when a few of the prospective bride's friends get together and show in this way their affection for her, choosing a shower of articles which they know will please and delight her, I can not see a legitimate objection to the practice. And, after all, whatever we may think, people will go on giving bridal showers, and brides will continue to receive them.

I have always had a fondness myself for the linen shower—one has such latitude of choice, all the way from the humble dustcloth to the elaborately embroidered lace and linen tablecloth. And now is none too early to begin planning such a shower for the June bride: you will want a full month at least to work on your sewing, so it merely hemming or some heavy and ornate embroidery.

Of course, household linen will hold the first place; it is seldom that any one gives lingerie at such a shower, though there is no reason why it should not be done, and I am sure any girl would love to receive hand-made underwear, or handkerchiefs embroidered with her new initials. Household linen includes a good deal, however, sheets, towels, centerpieces, tablecloths and napkins, even a good set of kitchen linen, dish towels, dish cloths and the like. Dainties and pillow slips are two other good ideas, according as one wishes to give bedroom or dining room linen.

It is a good plan to decide beforehand what will be given and to have each member of the party do some one portion of the work. One, for instance, may do all the actual making up; another the buttonholing and scalloping; a third the embroidering of initials and monograms, and so on. A few hints as to this kind of work may not, perhaps, come amiss.

Embroider table linen with white embroidery cotton; our embroidery will outlast than the linen on which it is done.

When a luncheon set is given, use only one initial on each piece, not a monogram. An initial alone may be worked, and a spray of flowers or something of the sort may be worked under it in the eyelet or French embroidery.

In general, initials should be of a specified size for each piece. One rule reads: "Tablecloths, three or four inches high; napkins, one or one and a half; sheets, three or four; pillow slips, two inches." Other pieces

L. B. Cary, Judge Briggs and J. J. Miley Also Make Addresses

Mrs. Ida F. Mackrille of San Francisco addressed one of the most enthusiastic political meetings last night, that the town of Clovis has seen during this campaign. The auditorium was filled with men and women and throughout the evening a great deal of interest was manifested. Mrs. Mackrille dealt with events that have transpired in the past decade and that are now pending questions in the life of the nation, and logically and eloquently discussed them. Her address was received with great applause.

L. B. Cary of Reedley, Republican nominee for the assembly from the 52nd district, gave one of his characteristic addresses, in which he explained why the Progressive ticket is now in the field.

He also took up local issues and pledged himself to support the progressive policies in the next legislature.

J. J. Miley, Republican candidate for supervisor from the second district also spoke briefly, promising the people of the district a clean, efficient and economical administration of the affairs of the district.

Judge Briggs, candidate for the Superior court, was the first speaker. He contrasted the condition of the government of the city of Fresno seven years ago, with the condition existing now and pledged himself to continue the same high ideals on the Superior court bench.

Col. J. C. Hoblitt acted as chairman. The hall was handsomely decorated with flags and bunting and with pictures of Roosevelt and Johnson. The work was done by the Young Men's Progressive Republican League of Clovis.

STOLEN BIG FOUND; THIEF IS ARRESTED

The police department and the sheriff's office received word last night from the city marshal at Clovis that a man giving his name as George Wilson had been arrested there and that the horse and buggy stolen the first of this week from in front of St. Paul's Methodist church, had been recovered. According to the message Wilson confessed to the theft and admitted that he had stolen a rig in Turlock. He will be returned to this city and tried for grand larceny.

GAS CO. VALUES ITS PLANT HERE AT $654,631

This Includes Good Will of Corporation, Assarts Complaint
Claims $1.25 Rate Permits Only .056 Per Cent; Pay in Advance Wanted

The Pacific Gas and Electric Company values its Fresno plant at $654,631, according to its statement in a complaint filed in the United States District Court at Los Angeles, to enjoin the city of Fresno from reducing the present rate of $1.25 to $1 per thousand cubic feet of gas. The company claims that the $1.25 rate is only sufficient to bring a return of .056 per cent on the physical value of the property. Information regarding the filing of the suit was received here yesterday through an Associated Press dispatch.

In giving valuation (figures), the company holds its land holdings in Fresno at $22,700, and includes among the other items its mains, pipes, meters, machinery, tools and good will.

Neither the nature of the suit, nor the outcome of the suit, is it asked that it be permitted to require advance payment for gas, or the deposit of proper security.

Mayor Snow is now in Los Angeles and will represent the city of Fresno in the hearing before the United States District Court. He will ask that the court require that all money collected in excess of the dollar rate be impounded, pending the outcome of the suit, to be returned to the company in case it wins, or to be returned to consumers in case the city of Fresno wins the case.

LOCAL NURSERYMEN AT STATE MEETING

Fresnoites on Program of Annual Convention at Oakland, Nov. 7-9

Programs for the second annual convention of the California Association of Nurserymen have been issued from Oakland, where the sessions are to be held November 7, 8 and 9. Fresno is to be represented by several local nurserymen on the program. Frank H. Wilson of this city is vice president of the state association and will respond to Mayor Mott of Oakland on the first day. Wilson is also chairman of the committee on transportation. George C. Reedling is chairman of the committee on legislation. The sessions will be held in the Oakland Chamber of Commerce building. Reedling will speak on horticulture and pomology abroad and make a comparison of European and California methods. He will also participate in a discussion on uniform inspection laws for the state. William T. Kirkman, Jr. will give an address on "Cooperation Among Nurserymen." W. S. Marshall is billed to take part in a discussion of a paper on "Recent Observations on Crown Gall." Charles A. Chambers will read a paper on "The Low Price of New Varieties." Other than "Originators," Wilson, Reedling, Kirkman, Marshall and Chambers are in the nursery business here and will take part in the proceedings of the convention on the 7th and 8th day. The final day will be devoted to pleasure. The state president is W. V. Elderly of Niles. The California organization is affiliated with the Pacific Coast Association.

FUEL OIL PRICES MAY AFFECT STATE

Action of Standard in Stopping Sale Dec. 1 Came as Surprise Here

The action of the Standard Oil Company in stopping the sale of fuel oil after December 1 was received with surprise in Fresno. No intimation had come here from the Eastern offices that such action was to be taken. Calvin S. Hill, manager of the Associated, was in Visalia yesterday. He stated over the phone last night that the announcement came as a complete surprise to him and he had not had time to communicate with San Francisco to learn if the action affected California.

It is believed here that the decision of the Standard to devote its entire energies to refining gasoline and other products will result in an increase of prices on fuel oil all over the country. The independent market is not large and manufacturers will feel the change more than anyone else. According to advices from Chicago, the advance will be as heavy as 50 per cent.

TYPOS TO OBSERVE TUBERCULOSIS DAY

Tomorrow is "Tuberculosis Day" in all parts of the country, and individuals and various organizations have been asked to participate by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. In Fresno a request has been received by the national association by the Typographical Union, the members of which at their regular meeting tomorrow afternoon in Union Hall will observe the day with speeches. The unionists will discuss the "Printer's Home in Colorado" where members of the Typographical Union who are afflicted with the great white plague are given treatment.
